From Cycle Parade to May Pole Dance, Art People Party Is Yours

The Cycle Parade—uni, bi and tri—will unquestionably be a great 11 a.m. starter for this Saturday's Art People Party, but the most significant event will come at the very end.

At 4 p.m., possibly even heralded by a trumpet and certainly bowed on-stage by a classic May Pole dance, Borough Mayor Robert W. Cawley will perform the "un-cutting ceremony" that will close off Palmer Square's upper reaches for the next five months.

It is hoped most fervently by everyone, especially by Mr. Cawley, that this symbolic act will take place in warm, bright sunshine. If Saturday is cloudy and cold, so be it. But if it rains, everything will happen this Sunday instead.

The state has given its OK for the closing. Both sides of the Square between Nassau and the north stretch of street alongside the post office will be closed off, with a "fire-lane" on the west side next to the stores.

The taxi-stand will be moved to the Nassau Street bus-stop. A loading zone will be set aside on Nassau at Skirm's and maybe there will be a second one at the bottom side of the closed-off area.

Ten heavy concrete rings, three feet in diameter and two feet high, will be arranged in the closed-off street bed on the east side. Evergreens (yews) will be planted in the ring. These 817 well rings—the kind of thing you line a water well with — are being especially made, and the town's engineering department will install as many of them as possible this Friday.

The west side of the Square will be open all day Saturday until the 1 p.m. ceremonies, when temporary barricades will be set up. On Monday, Borough engineers will set up those concrete parking-lot dividers for a more permanent barrier.

Both snorkel mailboxes will remain, although Mayor Cawley said this week that he hopes they can eventually be moved permanently. ("To have motorist-convenient mailboxes in the most congested part of the Central Business District is crazy," he said). Amenities, like flower-boxes and sidewalk tables, may be added later.

The Square will not be opened up for rush-hours, as originally contemplated, the mayor announced. Nobody—police, firemen, engineer, administrator—felt this was needed.

Firemen are understood to be skittish about some aspects of the closing, however: will traffic increase on Chambers Street so that trucks will have trouble getting out of Mercer Engine Number Three firehouse, and could ladders be stretched to One Palmer Square, if needed?

At Saturday's ceremonies, it is expected that one speaker may be Mrs. Kathleen Edwards, who had the original idea for the temporary closing of the Square, and Henry Arnold, landscape architect who wants to ban the auto from Nassau altogether. Borough Councilmen, Township Committeemen and the C.B.D. members of the Planning Board, may be around, too, although it won't be a speech-making affair.

Political Slates Fill — No Primary Contests

No primary contests will confront voters in Princeton's local elections this year; in fact, both parties have had to use a lot of arguments to persuade people to run at all.

Borough: Two Republicans challengers will face two Democratic incumbents for the pair of seats on Borough Council. Republicans are Margen Penick and Robert Pols. Democratic incumbents are Joseph P. Moore and Martin P. Lombardo.

Township: Democratic Mayor Jay Bleiman will run against Republican Everett P. Garretson for the single three-year term on Township Committee. The one-year seat presently held under appointment by Republican Sanford C. Reynolds will be sought by Democrat Ellen Peterson.

TWO REPUBLICANS: Robert Pols and Margen Penick are the Borough Council candidates for the Republican party.

Mrs. Penick, who lives on Elm Lane, is identified with ecological and environmental concerns in Princeton. When she lived in the Township, she was chairman of the Conservation Commission. She has also served as a trustee of the Association of New Jersey Conservation Commissions, and is currently chairman of the planning committee of the Princeton Battlefield Area Preservation Association and co-chairman of the Delaware and Raritan Canal Coalition. She is also active in the Stony Brook - Millstone Watersheds Association.

Mr. Pols is a 1968 graduate (cum laude) of Rider in accounting. Last year, after holding positions with Smith Barney & Company and Ernest and Ernst in New York, he established his own investment office in Princeton. He lives at 145 Ewing.

Mr. Moore, who lives at 246 Witherspoon, is assistant dean of student affairs at Princeton University, a post he has held for the past four years. A graduate of Princeton High, he did his undergraduate work at Central State University in Wilberforce, Ohio. He holds a Master of Arts in education from Newark State College. Mr. Moore is president of the Princeton Youth Center board, a trustee of the Princeton Youth Fund and an Elder in Witherspoon Presbyterian Church. He is Police Commissioner of the Borough.

Mr. Lombardo, who lives at 80 Spruce Street, is co-ordinator of youth and adult activities on the national staff of the National Multiple Sclerosis Society. A graduate of Princeton High, he majored in business administration at Rider College. He holds the associate degree in liberal arts from Trenton Junior College. Mr. Lombardo is founder and chairman of Princeton's Joint Commission on Aging and a former member of the Princeton Joint Commission on Civil Rights. He is Fire Commissioner for Princeton.

Township Republican candidate Everett B. Garretson, 94 Fairway Drive, and his wife, Barbara, are the owners of H. P. Clayton's (The store was founded by Mrs. Garretson's grandfather.) A graduate of Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute with a degree in electrical engineering, Mr. Garretson also holds a master of science in electrical engineering from Princeton.

He is chairman of the Township Zoning Board, an Elder of the First Presbyterian Church and an active member of Rotary. He also served as treasurer of the Council of Community Services.

Mayor Bleiman is moving in May to 75 Clover Lane. He is an associate professor of Princeton University and director of the mid-career program at the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs. He has been at the school for five years and has lived in Princeton five years.

A graduate of the U.S. Military Academy at West Point, he taught for four years in the department of social sciences there. He retired from the Army in 1968 as a Lieutenant Colonel in the Corps of Engineers.

Ellen Peterson, 50 Littlebrook Road, is chairman of the Township Board of Health. She holds a law degree from Harvard and did her undergraduate work at Penn State.

She was special counsel in the office of the president at Rutgers until late in 1972, and prior to that was director of the state office of legal services in the Department of Community Affairs. She was also special assistant in the deputy commissioner in that department, and served for a time as assistant counsel for Governor Richard Hughes.

Sanford C. Reynolds Jr., 185 Terhune, is a vice-president with the Young & Rubicam advertising agency. A graduate of Princeton, he is on the executive committee of the national alumni association and for nine years has been on the editorial board of directors for the University's Alumni Weekly. A member of the committee that drafted the sports guidelines for Princeton High, he served on the Joint Recreation Commission until his appointment last fall to Township Committee. He was both chairman and vice-chairman of the Commission. He was a founder of the Midget Football League.

TOWNSHIP REPUBLICAN: Everett B. Garretson will run for a three-year term on Township Committee as the Republican candidate.

Art People Party

It will, however, be a poetry-reading affair. Theodore Weiss, poet in residence at Princeton University, has written "A Princeton Spring," to be read either by the poet himself or by Mayor Cawley. A special limited edition of the poem will be on sale at the Princeton Book Mart, on the Square. Art People Party sponsors call the poem's edition "a celebratory broads de"

Like its two precesessors, this Third Annual Art People Party, sponsored by the Princeton Arts Council, is dedicated to the joyful union of the arts, to the outdoors and to the young. Anne Reeves, Council member, has spent the past year seeking out new things that will symbolize — or even demonstrate — the unity of the Arts.

She has several excitements for this Saturday: one will be a 3 p.m. appearance on the green behind Alexander Hall, of the University dance group called "To Dance is to Live, Number 7." The dance to be performed is based on children's games like Ring-A-round-the-Rosy, Red Rover, Blind Man's Bluff, and anyone over the age of 2, will find it all very relevant.

On the Green. At 1:30, on Nassau Hall Green, Princeton High students will show younger ones how to make a real, live parachute into a living sculpture and a living, moving, rippling "game."

Nearby will be a standing sculpture — a giant cube supporting a thin yellow drapery made, of all things, from surgical rubber. It will be an arch, and you will walk or crawl through it, depending on your height and breadth.

The great big all-day project will be the "ribbon drawing," which isn't related either to a ribbon or to drawing. The "ribbon" is a two-foot-wide canvas strip on which youngsters (or anybody, for that matter) will be invited to apply, with magic marker, or whatever medium seems at hand, their fanciful, colorful and artistic thoughts.

This canvas strip, suitably perforated at the ends and supplied with grommets, is what Mayor Cawley will lace together in the "un-cutting ceremony" at 4

Endless Action. It will be a full day. On Nassau Hall Green, in the Witherspoon-Spring Street area, in the Witherspoon parking lot area and its adjacent Lamplighter area (so named for a long-vanished restaurant), around One Palmer Square and extending to the First Baptist and First Presbyterian Churches, the YM-YWCA and even McCarter Theatre, something will be going on.

Young Robin Sassman has assembled 2,000 cut flowers, and girls in costumes will stroll the area, giving them to the Party's estimated 2,000 guests. Each flower will bear the name of the donating florist.

Clowns (recognize PHS students?) will scamper through the crowds all day, and somewhere all day long, there will be the sound of music: Fordham Road Blues Band . . . Lonesome Drifters . . . Trinidad . . . the Millstone Valley Boys . . . Straight Gain (bluegrass) . . .

Dancers? The Princeton Ethnic Dancers, the Princeton Folk Dance Group, the young dancers from Johnson Park School who will perform Israeli dances; Aparri School dancers will do "Welcome Isadora" and the Princeton Ballet Society will not only perform a mazurka, but will do that pre-uncutting May-pole Dance.

Songs for Everyone. Singers — the United Voices, a black group led by a Seminary student . . . the Witherspooners under P.J. & B. singer Roo Brown . . . and the kind of "everybody join in!" folk singing all ages enjoy. That will be the Princeton Folk Music Society, in the lead.

Street Theatre's mobile trailer will be the stage for "Richard Harding Bush and the Rococo Coco Bean." Sarah Jane Lithgow, of PHS, will present her "Story Theatre" episodes for children. Circles and Squares will do improvisation theatre, which could involve you in some unexpected participation. Forest Friends Puppets probably won't!

And that's not all . . .

From noon, the First Baptist Church will sell fried chicken, sandwiches and sweet-potato pies, having promised to make twice as many pies because in 1972, there weren't enough. This table will be on Nassau Hall Green, but at the church itself, visitors from the YMCA Antique Show can stop in for fried-chicken, noon to 5 p.m.

Witherspoon Presbyterian will sell baked things; Christ Congregation will have a lemonade stand.

What's It All About. But the point of it all is the demonstration of skill and love in arts and crafts. Throughout the day, artists will show you how it's done. Selling will be minimized, in contrast to other years, and the emphasis will be on the love of the work itself.

To keep you oriented and apace, the Arts Council will have three giant sheets hanging on the Witherspoon Street wall of the First National Bank Building, telling you what's going to happen where.

Just be sure you get to the top of Witherspoon by the campus gate at 11 a.m. with your (uni, bi, tri) cycle, or your bicycle-built-for-two. Ribbons will be awarded for the Most Colorful, Craziest, Prettiest, Funniest and Most Original bike decorations.

The parade, organized by marshals Sarah Woodworth and Michael Logan, will proceed down Witherspoon to a welcome from the oom-pahs of the Princeton University Band Group.

Decorate your bike! See you at 11 Saturday!

Thank You!

Art People Party chairman is Philetus Holt, president of the sponsoring Princeton Arts Council. Committee members, all Council members, are Anne Reeves (special events chairman); Nancy O'Connor (scheduling); Betty Steele (publicity); Barbara Robinson (secretary); Jeremiah Ford (bike parade); June Cawley (clean-up) and Richard Poole, Jack Yeoman and Leslie Vivian (staging).

Among all the young people who are helping with the Party Mrs. Reeves cites particularly Annie Whitall and Connie Wellnitz from Princeton High School.

Kaysen to Stay as Institute Head Despite Faculty Protests

Dr. Carl Kaysen, director of the Institute for Advanced Study, has received the support of the Institute's trustees who unanimously rejected the demand of a majority of Institute faculty (17 of 27) that Dr. Kaysen be removed.

Trustees, led by J. Richardson Dilworth, have asked Dr. Kaysen to remain as director five more years. Trustees have been negotiating with Dr. Armand Borel, who represents the majority of 17 on the faculty.

Dr. Borel's committee informed the trustees, in a letter dated April 23, that "any satisfactory arrangement will . . . require that the present Director relinquish his office and our group expects this to happen within the coming academic year."

Mr. Dilworth, in a prepared statement, said trustees would be "willing to continue discussions indefinitely on virtually all matters in an effort to reach a reasonable meeting of minds. But since the issue of having to sacrifice the Director appears to be the price for agreement, or even for continued discussions, we are reluctantly forced to conclude that there can be no agreement with the position of the Borel committee."

Divisive Appointment. Dissension at the Institute began when trustees, on Dr. Kaysen's recommendation, appointed to the faculty Dr. Robert N. Bellah, a sociologist from the University of California at Berkeley. A majority of the faculty opposed his appointment. Dr. Bellah withdrew last week following the sudden death of his oldest daughter.

Social studies is a new department at the Institute, and trustees, in announcing their support of Dr. Kaysen, cited his initiation of the new department and his securing of new funds for it.

In their discussions with Mr. Dilworth, the 17 faculty insisted that trustees promise not to make any appointments "against a majority vote of the faculty." Trustees agreed, but only in regard to the next two appointments to the department of social science. They added:

"On the matter of faculty appointment procedure in general, the board (of trustees) looks to the Faculty-Trustee Committee on Governance to devise procedures which will preclude any future repetition of a situation in which the board would feel it must override a negative vote of the Faculty."

Warned of Resignations. Trustees say they were warned that refusing to dismiss Dr. Kaysen might cause "some outstanding professors" to resign. "We hope there will be no resignations," the trustees' said, "but if there are, we are confident that they will be few."

"It's appalling that the board would rather see outstanding scholars leave than see the director leave," declared Morton White, of the faculty, "and it is amazing that the Director would want to stay when 17 out of his faculty of 27 have lost confidence in him."

"If they are looking for resignations, they had better look to their own side," said Dr. Borel. "We are more unified than ever and we have just begun to fight."

"I think there's obviously a lot of strain involved," said Dr. Kaysen, "I don't find this conflict agreeable and I think the discussions between the trustees' committee and the faculty group have gone a long way toward resolving the points of conflict."

In a pair of formal resolutions Saturday, the trustees expressed their sympathy to Dr. Bellah and reaffirmed their "confidence . . . in Dr. Bellah's scholarly accomplishment which led to approval of his appointment." The resolution also says that leading social scientists have substantiated the trustees' judgment of Dr. Bellah's stature.

SCHOOL BOARD MEETS

Varied Action Taken. The school board held its April meeting on May 1, gave everybody an extra Memorial Day holiday (May 25), rescued the elementary-age foreign language program from the cliff of oblivion, argued about spiked punch at a Christmas party, and adopted "Proposed Guidelines" for the high school after amending the title in some embarrassment when a parent in the audience pointed out that nowhere does the text say the Guidelines are for students.

Tuesday, June 5, the board will spend the evening with the public in the high school auditorium talking about the future of the school—a new building or a remodeled one?

Engineer consultants are imposing their ideas of education on the high school staff and not allowing enough time for staff ideas, protested Richard Wood, head of the PHS industrial arts department. He had been alloted only 40 minutes' talk, he reported, plus a department-heads meeting which he hadn't been able to attend personally.

Hannah Fox, board president, assured him concerns like his would be considered.

Nein? George Fitzgerald, board member, employed the negative imperative to introduce a motion wiping out all foreign language instruction in the elementary grades after next year.

"The program isn't giving us our money's worth," he said, "and we've been discussing it off and on for two years."

Board members were startled by his sudden action. William Marvel asked how much the program cost ($50,000, said Superintendent Philip E. McPherson), and shrugged it off as "one of the most placid issues" the board had ever encountered.

In the vote, Mr. Fitzgerald was joined by Winthrop Pike and Philip Cruickshank, but the other six members voted them down.

In parallel action, the board then authorized the staff to plan an elementary language program which may lead to a flexibile system, in which students study formally and others are exposed to foreign cultures, more than to actual language.

Dry, Dry. "No liquor in the schools" is the basic idea behind one of the Princeton High disciplinary Guidelines. But the paragraph refers to "school-sponsored functions" and uses the phrase "for both adults and minors."

Spiked punch was forbidden at the last Christmas party, reported a faculty member. The paragraph says "school rules"—but are there actual rules against alcohol?

It wasn't a problem, explained Principal Patricia Wertheimer, until the state lowered the legal drinking age to 18. This really let down the bar, because it automatically meant that some high school students are legal drinkers, some are not.

Besides, protested PHS staff member Ernestine Fletcher, committee and the chairman, Marvin Trotman, hadn't fully approved of these Guidelines. Dr. Wertheimer disagreed with Mrs. Fletcher on many points. Board member Joan Doig said she was not comfortable about the whole thing, was policy involved? was wording adequate? were people really unhappy?

Finally the board voted in the Guidelines, with Mr Pike voting "no" and Gail Pietrinferna abstaining. But not before Dietrich Meyerhofer said well, it's a minor point, but who, reading them would ever know that these Guidelines are for "students?" The board unanimously amended the title.

The Princeton High School Choir expects $63,000 for its European trip, and has $59,276.16, of which $3,755 is in pledges. The choir expects $1,200 from its May 12 concert and $1 each from the $2 tickets to the film "War and Peace." The Princeton Playhouse gets the other dollar. With this money "in sight," the board gave final approval to the trip.

Calendar Approved. Next year's calendar was approved 8-1. Mr Pike said he wanted a longer Christmas vacation plus Easter Monday, and voted "no."

When William Rux, PREA president, protested that the calendar hasn't been part of teachers' contract negotiation —currently in legal "impasse"— counsel Thomas Cook said a school calendar didn't have to be part of negotiations. Board member Philip Cruickshank said the PREA had received a copy and was consulted.

As moves to keep some teaching staff, the board approved transferring a present teacher into a full-time substitute position, moving another teacher into full-time driver's ed and assigning a third teacher as a full-time "homebound" instructor. Permanent substitute adn permanent homebound instructor can be supplemented with part-timers as needed, the board explained.

A report on suspended students at the high school revealed that 81 students have been suspended only once and have not repeated and only five students have been suspended more than twice. One student, suspended nine times, is now taught at home half-day and spends a half a day in school.

Frank Salda, dean of the faculty at the high school, announced that the school has added 31 new courses for next year and has dropped 22 for a total of 201 courses. Some are one-semester.

Parents whose children will not be transported next year, due to the Middle School shift, will be notified by mail, Dr. McPherson announced.

150 Seek to Be PHS Principal

Want to be PHS Principal? About 150 people do, including a few on the present Princeton Regional Schools staff. Interviews with about two dozen of the most likely candidates for the job of Principal, Princeton High School, are scheduled to begin shortly, says Superintendent Philip E. McPherson.

School officials do not say who on the present staff has applied, but it has been revealed that George Petrillo, guidance counsellor, is one.

Applications have come from the northern mid west—Michigan, Illinois, Ohio -- where schools like the University of Illinois and the University of Michigan train pople for, in the Superintendent's phrase, "front-line work." Columbia University Teachers College has also produced applicants, he said.

Personal qualities the school board is looking for, the Superintendent said, are strength, decisiveness, flexibility, intelligence, sensitivity and honesty. The board also hopes to find somebody interested in staying in the job. Present Principal Patricia Wertheimer is resigning after two years. She will become principal of Dana Hall in Wellesley, Mass.

TWO MORE ACCIDENTS

On Route 206 Near Ewing. Accident scarred Route 206 North claimed two more mishaps last week, both taking place near the dangerous intersection of Ewing Street.

Saturday night at 8:32, Betty M Johnson, 22, of Basking Ridge swerved across 206 some 100 feet north of Ewing and rammed into a telephone pole. The entire front end of her car was damaged.

She was treated at the Princeton Medical Center for lacerations of the face and neck. Also treated for minor injuries were two passengers, Janice A. Johnson, 17, and Paul Herbst, 18, both of Basking Ridge.

According to Miss Johnson, she was following a car which suddenly flashed its signal to turn left onto Ewing. She had to brake suddenly, causing her car to steer left and veer across 206. Sgt. Michael Kopliner made no charges. In his report, he wrote: "— this particular curve and intersection create a hazardous condition."

Falls Asleep, Strikes Pole. Lee R. Jones, 24, of Trenton, damaged the entire fron end and roof of his station wagon when he ran off 206 at 5:10 Friday and struck a service pole. He was taken by the Princeton First Aid and Rescue Squad to the Medical Center where he was treated for a contusion of the lip and laceration of the hand.

According to police, Mr. Jones reported that he must have fallen asleep while driving because he had been working at two jobs. Ptl. Mario Musso ticketed him for careless driving.

Cycle and Car Collide. In the Borough early Friday afternoon, a car and motorcycle collided at the intersection of Library Place and Boudinot Street, causing minor injury to the driver of the motorcycle. It was raining at the time of the mishap.

The cyclist, Alfred W. Noack, 21, of Neshanic Station, was treated at the Medical Center for abrasions of the knee. He was charged with driving on a learner's permit without the presence of a licensed driver.

The driver, Frances J. Luquer, 67, 48 Parkside Drive, was charged with careless driving by Sgt. Ralph Procaccino. The entire left side of her small foreign car was damaged.

According to the police report, the Luquer car had pulled into the intersection and was attempting to turn left onto Library Place when it was struck near the left front fender by the motorcycle. Sgt. Procaccino quoted Mr. Noack as saying that as soon as a car in front of him had passed the Luquer car, "she started to pull out." He added that he had stepped on his brakes but when he started to slide, he released them to keep control.

Mrs. Luquer told police that she saw the cyclist going from side to side attempting to stop. "I thought he would go to his right and proceed behind me," she said.

FLOWER GIRLS Member of the Stony Brook Garden Club are arranging their annual sale of plants, to be held this year on Tuesday, May 8, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Left to right are Mrs. W. P. Howe III, Mrs. Francis M. Austin Jr. and Mrs. John C. Sienkiewicz.

SIX ARE ARRESTED

In Nassau St. Drug Raid. Six persons were arrested Friday night following a narcotics raid conducted by Borough police in third floor apartment at 246 Nassau St. The resident of the apartment, Dorenne Kovas, 20, was charged with possession of marijuana, narcotic paraphernalia, growing marijuana plants and mintaining a common nuisance. She was later released in $1,000 bail.

Jules Thompson, 24, of New Hope, was charged with possession of marijuana and narcotic paraphernalia. He was subsequently released in his own recognizance. Also charged with possession of marijuana and released in their own recognizance were: Robert G. Jones, 22; Johnny Bridges, 22; Albert Leftwich, 20, and his wife Gloria, 20. All are residents of Trenton.

Lt. Theodore Lewis reported that the apartment had been under surveillance by police. Taking part in the raid were Detectives Timothy Huzing and Thomas Michaud of the department's narcotics division; Sgt. John Bellow, Ptl. Ronald Holliday and Ptl. Victor Fasanella.

EIGHT ARE FINED

For Speeding. Eight Princeton area residents were fined Monday by Judge Theodore T. Tams Jr. for speeding in Borough traffic court.

They are William L. Warren, 19, 92 Snowden Lane, $15; Elwood M. Schley, 18, 1000 Princeton-Kingston Road, $19; Lois F. Harris, 40, 94 Gallup Road, $15; Marion S. Berger, 33, 46 Einstein Drive, $16; Anthony Arcaro, 24, Princeton Avenue, Hopewell, $15; Anthony M. Mucellia, 42, 26 Windsor Street, Princeton Junction, $24; Dorothy Scrimgeour, 26, Choir College, $15; and Solveig Smith, 32, 10 Cleveland Lane, $17.

Mark S. Pomykala, 22, Village Road, Princeton Junction, and Anthony J. Matarese, 18, 14 Berrien Avenue, Princeton Junction, each paid $15 for careless driving, while Severiano Berrios, 18, 241 Laurel Road and Lowell F. Curran Sr., 76, 50 Murray Place, were fined $12 each for stop sign infractions.

George A. Denzer, 33, of Cranbury was fined $15, red light; late inspection violation cost John F. Steck, 18,

STEREO SYSTEM TAKEN From Dormitory Room. A stereo receiver, turntable, tape recorder and pair of speakers with a combined value of $961 was stolen last week from Room 211, 1903 Hall, Princeton University.

Borough police identified the owner as David Jahnig. There were no signs of forced entry.

A 1970 Honda motorcycle, not in running condition and without license plates, was stolen between 5 and 8 p.m. Monday from a campus parking lot across from Palmer Stadium. Police listed the owners as David Kelso and Robert Herman of the Cloister Club.

Thomas Crystal, 32 Laurel Road, lost between $40-$50 last week when his wallet was stolen from a locker in Dillon Gym. Mr. Crystal told police he believed the locker had been locked, although police said there were no signs of forced entry.

In another campus theft, an envelope containing $450 was stolen last week from a desk in the office of WPRB in Holder Hall.

Mark Josselson, a student employee of the radio station, told police that he had put two envelopes, each containing $450 in the desk drawer at 5 p.m. He left the office without locking the desk.

When he returned an hour later, he told police, he locked the desk but failed to check to see if the money was still there. The next day he discovered one of the envelopes missing. Police said that he had told them there were two keys to the desk — it had not been forced open — but he did not know who had the second key.

Wallet Taken. In the Township, Mrs. Susan Jansen, Hibben Apartments, reported to police that she discovered her brown wallet was missing when she returned home at 5:15 Friday. She lost a small amount of money and two credit cards.

Entry was through the front door of her apartment, but police said that it had not been forced. Pfl. William Potts investigated.

The owner of Bailey's Department Store in the Princeton Shopping Center reported the shoplifting last week of a blouse valued at $9.98.

He told police that three girls had been trying on blouses and had made several trips to the dressing room. Discovering the theft after they had departed, he left his store in an unsuccessful attempt to locate them.

THREATENS PROCTOR

Youth Is Arrested. An 18 year-old Princeton youth was arrested and charged with assault Saturday after he allegedly threatened Princeton University proctor Denzil Turton with a 5½ inch hunting knife.

The youth was taken to Borough police headquarters where police said they discovered marijuana in his possession. He was also charged with that offense and after being processed by the Borough juvenile officer was later released to the custody of his grandmother.

Police report that the youth was allegedly trying doornobs in Holder Hall when he was observed by Proctor Turton. He was arrested by Pfl. William Hunter and Pfl. Victor Rasanella.

TEENAGER IS CHARGED With Having Stolen Property. Darrel J. Brooks, 18, 260 John Street, was charged by Borough police Friday with possession of a turntable that police allege, was part of a $600 stereo system stolen February 17 from a room at the Princeton Inn Dormitory.

Detectives Thomas Michand and Timothy Hulzing and Pfl. Victor Rasanella, armed with a search warrant signed by Judge Theodore T. Tams Jr.

Gilbert H. Francis

conducted a search of Brooks' home. He was later released after being issued a complaint, summons ordering him to appear in Borough court.

TO HEAD CIVIL RIGHTS For New Jersey. Gilbert H. Francis has been sworn in as the new director of the state's Division on Civil Rights, succeeding James Blair. Mr. Francis, who lives in Twin Rivers, is the husband of Dr. Edith V. Francis, principal of Riverside School in Princeton.

Mr. Francis attended public schools in the Bedford-Stuyvesant section of Brooklyn and was graduated from St. John's University with a degree in business administration and accounting. He is chairman of the New Jersey State Conference of the NAACP and is a member of the organization's conference board of directors.

TO DISCUSS AMNESTY Peace Center Panel. "Why Amnesty?" will be explored during a panel discussion next Wednesday, May 9 led by three speakers under the sponsorship of the Fund for Peace Education and the University's Faculty-Student Ad Hoc Committee for Peace and Human Rights.

The session will begin at 8 p.m. in McCosh 10 on the University campus. Speakers are Richard Falk, professor of international law at the Woodrow Wilson School; Major Clement E. St. Martin (ret.) of Willingboro, and Mike Uhl, a disabled veteran affiliated with the New York based organization, "Safe Return."

Pat Roberts, Peace Center co-ordinator, said the program has been planned to provide information, both for those who favor amnesty and those who oppose it. The audience will have an opportunity to question panelists.

Dr. Falk recently went to North Vietnam to escort home the first three prisoners of war. Major St. Martin commanded the New Jersey Selective Service Center in Newark from 1968 to 1971 and has testified his knowledge of fraudulent deferments granted to over 1,500 men. Mr. Uhl's organization seeks to help men who left the United States for other countries as a war protest and would now like to return.

WOODEN TO SPEAK At YWCA Series. Kenneth Wooden of the Institute of Applied Politics of Princeton, will speak to the third of a series of programs on "Youth and Justice" at the YWCA, Wednesday, May 16, at 7:30. A former aide to Senator Harrison Williams and Congressman Frank Thompson, Mr. Wooden has done research for the Ford Foundation into the penal incarceration of children. Speaking before the U.S. Senate Educational subcommittee of Labor and Public Welfare, Mr. Wooden claimed the serious reading deficiencies exist in every juvenile delinquent penal facility in the 15 states whose institutions he had visited.

"Fifty-three per cent of the prison population of New Jersey is under the age of 21," he wrote recently in an article

Pizza Pie Caper

Stereos, wallets, television sets — yes, but pizza pies...?

Borough police report that a young female, who refused to identify herself, called headquarters Monday night to report that around 10 o'clock, as she and her girl friend were walking on Witherspoon Street past Princeton Cemetery, about 20 kids came out of the Youth Center across the street, surrounded them, took the pizza pie they had just purchased, and ran off.

SEEKS SENATE SEAT

Mrs. Martindell to Run. Anne Martindell, 1 Battle Road, has announced that she will run for the State Senate. The Princeton Democrat will be unopposed in the primary, as will her November Republican opponent, incumbent Senator William E. Schluter of Pennington.

For the pair of Assembly seats, the Republicans will run their two incumbents, Karl Weidel and Walter H. Foran. Democratic candidates will be Michael G. Morris of Ringoes, and Ted Yim of Ewing Township.

All will be running for the Legislature in District 14, which includes parts of Mercer, Hunterdon, Middlesex and Morris Counties.

OPPOSITION DENIED

By Schluter on Tams. State Sen. William E. Schluter has denied he is opposed to the nomination of Borough and Township Magistrate Theodore T. Tams Jr. as Mercer County Judge, asserting he merely wanted time to interview him.

Sen. Schluter used his senatorial prerogative to keep the Tams confirmation from coming to a vote, which may forestall the appointment until after the November election, because of a lengthy Senate recess from now until Nov. 12.

Pointing out that he only received Tams name on Monday, Sen. Schluter commented that he had only had time to speak to him on the phone, and it had been his practice to interview persons from his district nominated for judgeships.

"I fully expected that we (the Senate) would be back here next week and the confirmation could have come then," Sen. Schluter said. He vigorously denied any attempt to block the Tams appointment.

Judge Tams, a Democrat, was nominated to the $37,000 a year post by Governor William T. Cahill.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS: Mrs. Louise Smith has been director of the Princeton Cooperative Nursery School ever since the school's founding. Actually, that was about 26 years ago, but this year seemed like a good time for a Silver Anniverary in honor of Mrs. Smith and it will be held this Sunday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Robert Hillier. Messages of affection have been coming into Princeton for Mrs. Smith from parents long since resident elsewhere (". . . my son is now a succeful lawyer") and several are expected from out of town at Sunday's celebration. Here, at this week's Moy Pole in the school's playground are Rebecca Royal and Justin Harding.

SIX-YEAR PLAN READY

For Township. The Township's first long-term — in this case, six years — capital improvement program is in firm shape and will be presented and possibly adopted, at Committee's Monday night meeting.

The $1.6 million program includes such things as bike paths, an addition to the library, sewer infiltration studies and the like. The municipality has never had a long-range planning program. Committee will also adopt the capital budget for 1973.

A recommendation to drop the Institute for Applied Psychotherapy drug program will be presented to Committee. The Intergovernmental Drug Committee recommends that IAP, toward which both Princeton's municipalities pay about $8,000 yearly, should be closed at the end of the summer.

Public hearings will be held Monday on sewer rental increases and accepting Ross Stevenson Circle into the municipality. The resignation of David Rahr from the Civil Rights Commission — he has moved from the community — will be presented.

ANTIQUE SHOW SET

For This Weekend. The 4th annual Princeton YMCA Antiques Show and Sale opens with a patrons invitational preview at 7 p.m. Friday, then continues this weekend, from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. Saturday, and noon to 6 p.m. Sunday. An admission donation of $1.25 benefits the YMCA Youth Scholarship Fund.

Several social rooms of the YMCA-YWCA Center on Avalon Place will be converted into antiques shops in which the novice or the experienced collectors can select from American, French, English, Italian and Oriental wares. There will be furniture, oil painting, prints, porcelains, glass, dolls, toys, silver, pewter, brass, tin, jewelry, books, documents and tools.

Skilled craftsmen working in the early American manner will provide a delightful variety of demonstrations as the sale progresses.

Bread baking and butter churning will be shown by the Y's Francis G. (Frank) Clark. Bruce Abrahams, 12, an apprentice baker, will help with sourdough baking, including skillet breads and ash cakes. Butter will come from a clay and wood churn operated by Julietta Poventud, 13.

Karl Gunsser will operate a wood turning lathe to produce repairs for antiques and restored furniture. The final Saturday event will be instruction in dried flower arrangements by Mrs. Bernard Cooke.

On Sunday afternoon there will be fish fly tying by M. Livingston Delafield, a teenaged expert in the art; jewelry painting by Renie Updike, and additional demonstrations with Mr. Gunsser.

Toys from the major collection of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Barenholtz will be on special exhibition for the weekend.

LIBRARY SETS PROGRAMS

For Older Residents. The Public Library will offer several programs for senior citizens this month.

The first presentation will be May 9, at 10 a.m., "Readings over Coffee," with Dr. Donald Ecroyd. On May 15, three travel films: "The Eighth Continent," "Pan Am's World — the South Pacific," and "Wings to Venezuela," will be shown at the Lloyd Terrace. All residents of Princeton housing projects are invited.

The same films will be shown at the Public Library, May 15, at 10:30 a.m. On May 23, the film, "Gertrude Stein: when this you see, remember me", will be shown at 10:30 a.m. Coffee will be served at all programs.

Reference Librarians, at the Information Desk, are ready to help library users find social security or medicare information. An investment table, with stock guides, and a consumer information corner may be found on the first floor.

On the same level are shelves stocked with large-print titles covering mysteries, romances, gothic novels and non-fiction as well as "The New York Times" and "Reader's Digest", large - print editions. In addition the Library has coin-operated photocopy machines which may be used for library or personal use and an illuminated, portable magnifying glass.

The Library is open Monday through Thursday 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. and Fridays and Saturdays 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Quick information may be requested from the Library by calling 924-9529.

YOUNG DONORS SOUGHT

By Red Cross. During the month of May, new young blood will be entering the Blood Bank at the Medical Center at Princeton.

Along with Chapters throughout northern New Jersey, the Princeton Chapter, American Red Cross will be sponsoring 18-21 year-old Blood Donor Month. Red Cross Youth Volunteers have made flyers and posters for distribution to area high school seniors asking "What's Your Excuse?"

Each Wednesday Red Cross volunteer nurses will be in a school typing blood of prospective donors. April 25 they were in Montgomery High School, May 2 in East Windsor, and May 9 in Princeton.

The next week, all students participating will be transport

News Of The THEATRES

TRIANGLE SHOW READY

Opens This Thursday. The 84th annual production of the Princeton Triangle Club, Future Schlock," opens its four-performance run at Mc Carter Theatre this Thursday.

As a unique addition to this year's show, four nationally known television personalities will join the 40-member company on stage. All four will appear in every show, performing material written by Princeton undergraduates.

Returning to a revue format after last year's book musical Future Schlock" promises to be the dancingest Triangle show of recent years. Included among some 30 sketches are 16 musical numbers, 10 of which include professionally-choreographed dancing. Musical Director Don Boroson, Princeton University senior, will conduct the 21-piece band, the largest in recent years.

According to Technical Director John Dennison, the full capabilities of the McCarter Theatre stage will be pressed into use to carry the sets for "Future Schlock." The technical crew has also designed and constructed a multi-level stage set, as well as the completely rigged loft.

Tickets remain for all performances with the best seats available for Thursday and Saturday afternoon. The evening shows will begin at 8:30 and the Saturday matinee at 2:30. Ticket orders are accepted by phone at 921-8700.

MORE MOVIES

Feiffer; Cyclists Jules Feiffer's "Little Murders" will be shown twice at McCarter next Wednesday as the starter in the theatre's May Movie Festival. Screenings have been scheduled for 7 and 9 p.m. The film stars Elliott Gould and Donald Sutherland, and was praised by the New York Times' Vincent Canby as "a sane, logical, hilarious projection of the rage most of us have been able to contain — at least until now!"

The regular Movies at McCarter series, running in tandem with the May Movie Festival, will continue next Wednesday, May 9 at 8 p.m. with "On Any Sunday," an ode to motorcycle racing. With it will be "Pacific Vibrations," a 45-minute surfer by MacGillivray and Freeman.

From Lou Reed Known as one of the best pure - rock sound producers, singer Lou Reed will make his Princeton debut Monday May 14 at 8 p.m. in Alexander Hall (Tickets at McCarter). Reed's recording of "Walk on the Wild Side" is now one of the top twenty musical hits.

Andy Pratt will join It's a Beautiful Day when they make their McCarter appearance next Monday at 8 p.m. Next Saturday, May 12, Josh Rifkin will bring an evening of piano rags by Scott Joplin to McCarter . . Rifkin is a musicologist and professor of music at Brandeis University. His two Joplin recordings were top best-sellers last year.

PHS PLAY READY

Opens This Thursday. The Tony Award-winning drama, "The Prime of Miss Jean Brodie," will be presented by Princeton High School's Drama 73 this Thursday, Friday and Saturday at 8 in the high school auditorium. Admission is $1.50.

Michael Godnick, a senior, is directing the play which appeared on Broadway during the 1968-69 drama season. The study of truth versus illusion was written by Jay Presson Allen, adapted from the novel by Muriel Spark.

"The Prime of Miss Jean Brodie" probes the halcyon years of a fiercely independent and unorthodox school teacher, portrayed by Sarah Jane Lithgow, and her relationship with four favorite pupils, played by Karen Besser, Jessica Krause, Adrienne Lavine and Debbie Matt. How Miss Brodie enjoys, exploits, and ultimately becomes a victim of her vaunted "prime" forms the basis of the play.

The supporting cast includes George Engelbrecht, John Turitzin, Jane Beard, Judy Applegate, Mike Casserly, Andrea Haring, Greta Hutchinson, Joanne Kenen, Ann Krumboltz, Karen Pike, Shelley Powsner, Liz Rothberg, Pat Buch, Nancy Schwellenbach, Melissa Sly and Judy Wingham.

THIS IS FURNITURE? Charlton Heston as a police inspector becomes romantically involved with Leigh Taylor-Young in "Soylent Green" now at the Playhouse. It is 2022 in New York and in this futuristic drama, women are considered "furniture," being supplied in expensive apartment buildings along with the lease. No doubt Women's Lib will rate this PG film an X.

FROM PRINCETON...

To "1776" Three Princeton-based actors are busy these days with the songs and script of "1776" in its Bucks County Playhouse production across the Delaware, appropriately enough, in New Hope.

In the Playhouse musical, the role of John Adams is being played by Richard Mathews. McCarter audiences will remember him from two seasons of repertory, a few years ago, when he appeared in "Of Mice and Men," "Pygmallon," "The Scarecrow" and "Three Sisters." He has seven seasons of the Stratford (Conn.) Shakespeare Festival to his credit.

Thomas Jefferson, in this production, is Steve James who sang in the recent P.J. & B. "Jacques Brel" on McCarter's stage. Young James, a junior at Princeton University, was also in the P.J. & B. "Oklahoma!"

The third Princetonian is John Martinuzzi, 93 Elm Road, who plays a singing courier. A Middlebury College graduate, he's been with the New Jersey Shakespeare Festival in various productions.

"1776" will open this Friday at 8:30 p.m. and will play again this Saturday and next Friday and Saturday, May 11 and 12 at the same hour. It will be on stage next Monday through Thursday at 8 p.m. and in 2 p.m. matinee this Saturday.

Wickedly Witty Coward Style Is Captured in 'Hay Fever'

Theatre Intime's production of "Hay Fever" is an affectionate and felicitous salute to the memory of Noel Coward. A wickedly witty play, it is acted with devastating relish by an accomplished cast. The director, Salhe Brophy, has successfully imparted the "Coward style" to her actors, who maintain the mood of domestic contentiousness and verbal mayhem to the delight of an audience.

Additional performances are scheduled for Thursday through Sunday at Murray Theatre, bringing to a close a successfully versatile Intime season.

Four more stubbornly self-centered individuals in one family than the Blisses of "Hay Fever" would be hard to find. Judith, an ex-stage star of advancing years remains the actress in her every relation with children, husband, and others. The only time she stops posing is when she is flatly contradicting somebody.

David, her novelist husband, has invited a chick down for the weekend to study her type, but studiously ignores her to make love to the more sophisticated Myra. Simon, the son, and Sorel, the daughter, can carry on a conversation in which neither cares what the other says, and both zero in with amatory intent on other people's dates when it pleases them. Sorel is at least honest enough to know that what she was doing with Sandy in the parlor was the result not of love but of a fondness for kissing. But her frequent decisions to improve her behavior and that of her family are as much a pose as are her mother's histrionics.

"In a Word . . ." Myra sums up the Bliss family: "This house is a complete feather bed of false emotions — you're posing, self-centered egotists, and I'm sick to death of you." With the first two statements this reviewer agrees, but not the third.

I reveled in their quarrels, their rudeness, their magnificent insincerities. The "Coward style" is trumphant.

Converging on this volatile quartet for an ill-starred weekend are four assorted guests: Sandy Tyrell, invited by Judith to flatter her with his youthful adulation; the diplomat, Richard Greatham, whose non-committal suavity captivated Sorel at a dance; the flapper, Jackie Coryton, the intended subject of David's literary analysis; and Simon's current passion, Myra Arundel, who, Judith complains, "goes around using sex as a sort of shrimping net." A welcome foil to the mad Blisses and their bewildered guests is the housemaid Clara whom nothing fazes, and who has learned in this capricious household how to be civilly rude in self-defense.

The performances are first-rate. Georgine Freedman's studied insincerity blossoms into countless delightful moments, as when she offers to sing to Richard if he will lean over the piano in an attentive attitude — "It's such a help." Pat Gorman and Eric Zwemer play her daughter and son convincingly; their very pace is such that one is convinced they would never have time to think of anyone but themselves.

Nathaniel Hartshorne, wrapped up in David's world of words and contrived dramatic situations, is the equal of his wife when it comes to acting out emotions that have no basis in fact. Kim Meyers' dry and unruffliable Clara is a delight amid the pyrotechnics of her employers.

Comic Diplomat. Andrew Bloch gives a superb comic performance as the self-controlled diplomat. His attempts to start a conversation with poor Jackie (who agrees with everything but can't go on from there) and his embarrassment when an impetuous peck at Judith's neck immerses him in deeper water than he anticipated, are high moments. Kathie Shenton is delightful as she tries to cope with a situation that is way beyond her.

Alisa Matlovsky, appearing first as a self-conscious siren, generates rebellion and humor as she holds off first Simon's headlong love-making and later David's more artful form of attack. Joseph Harbeson's wide-eyed innocence grows more and more unhappy in the overpowering Bliss atmosphere.

The well-played characters and the artful direction result in some very funny scenes. The typical Bliss tea party that closes the first act; the marvelous game "in the manner of the word,"; the hiccup scene between Jackie and Sandy; the family dispute over the layout of Paris streets, while in the back-

The handsome setting by Lowell Achziger somehow reflects the bogus pretensions of the Blisses. Costumes are by Gretchen Bullock, and lighting design by Charles G. Stone II.

Intime's publicity man spoke the truth with his newspaper ad: "Hay Fever — it's catching!" I suggest you forget your allergies. This is a disease to be enjoyed.

SPECIAL SHOWING SET

For War and Peace. The English Department at Princeton High School, in cooperation with Palmer Square Inc., will present a special two part showing of the original Russian version of Leo Tolstoy's "War and Peace" at the Princeton Playhouse Monday and Tuesday.

The special performances, both of which will be screened from 8:30 to noon, are being presented for the benefit of the high school choir, which has been raising funds since last fall to finance a singing tour of Europe this summer.

The largest and most ambitious film ever made, the Russian version of "War and Peace" was filmed over a period of five years at a cost of more than $100 million. The Princeton showing will be dubbed in English.

Tickets are available at the Playhouse box office, and will be available up to the date of the performances. Admission charge is $2.50 per person for both parts. Further information can be obtained by calling the box office.

GET SCRIPTS IN

For Street Theatre Contest. May 10 is the deadline for Street Theatre's original script contest and playwrights may mail entries to Rip Pellatan, 208 Ewing, or take them to the twice-weekly meetings of Street Theatre at Christ Congregation Church.

These meetings will be held every Sunday and Thursday from 7 p.m. until 10 p.m., starting Sunday, May 6. Anyone, seventh grade and up, is invited to attend.

Besides the original scripts, two other summer productions have been scheduled by the Theatre. The first try outs will be in mid June.

Summer workshops this year will be under the direction of Debbie Bellow, and anyone who wants to teach a workshop is invited to call her at 921-8826. Because Street Theatre's funds have been cut back, workshop leaders must be willing to volunteer.

Mother's Day 1973 MOTHER AND CHILD
by Georg Jensen

Georg Jensen, famed in collector's circles for its annual Christmas Plate, proudly announces the first issue of its Mother's Day Made in Copenhagen, the plate depicts mother and child and captures a timeless theme of maternal love and understanding. Pure Danish in design, the Georg Jensen plate is meticulously crafted and hand painted in the traditionally Danish tones of cobalt blue. Each plate is a miniature piece of art on porcelain, carved in bas-relief and color underglazed.

The plate is 6¾" in diameter and is pierced for hanging. It is individually packaged in an attractive silvertone gift box. $15.00.

The 1973 Georg Jensen Mother's Day plate, like the highly desired Christmas plate, will be made for just one year and dated accordingly.

PLAYHOUSE

Soylent Green. This futuristic suspense drama will probably be remembered as the movie in which the late Edward G. Robinson gave his last screen performance.

The film has everything: a murder mystery plot, science fiction (it is the year 2022) Charlton Heston and as an added bonus, a message about ecology.

The place is New York City at a point where man has destroyed his environment on land and is forced to live mainly off plankton from the sea. There are 40 million living in the city, life is bleak, strawberry jam cost $150 a jar, and the whole country seems to be existing under a police state.

Against this harrowing background—all the more frightening because it is plausible—a member of the board of Soylent Corp., which manufactures plankton derivitives that are rationed to the people by the government is murdered. Despite the attempt of powerful politicians to stop his investigation, Heston seeks to find out why. The resolution of the motive for the slaying is quite a gimmick.

Joseph Cotten as the murder victim, Chuck Connors as the latter's bodyguard and Brock Peters as a detective are part of a first-rate cast. Edward G. Robinson is Heston's frail but tough spirited assistant. PG.

GARDEN

Lady Caroline Lamb. One would think that the adulterous story of two of history's famous lovers, Lord Byron and Lady Caroline Lamb, which was forgivably passionate but unforgivenably public, should have been great movie material. But this portrait of Lady Caroline—not too much of which is historically accurate — is surprisingly shallow.

Lady Caroline has barely married pragmatic William Lamb before she meets the dashing and as yet unpublished Byron. She is immediately attracted to him. When his first volume of poems gains him the worship of all female London, Bryon takes up with the more than ever captivated Caroline and their affair is an open scandal. However, when Byron moves on to a more intellectual type, soap opera takes over. Lady Caroline follows him everywhere and finally attempts suicide in front of him at a state dinner.

The film fails because it fails to describe what Lady Caroline is up against—the exact nature of the codes of that post Waterloo era. Her relationship with her husband remains fuzzy throughout.

What is left are a few excellent cameo scenes. Sarah Miles is incontrovertibly "right" as Lady Caroline. Richard Chamberlain as Byron does little more than roll his eyes. In the background, a number of major English actors do their thing.

LORD BRYON Is played by Richard Chamberlain in "Lady Caroline Lamb," the adulterous story of the two lovers at the Garden.

Laurence Olivier, Margaret Leighton and John Mills. PG.

MONTGOMERY

Steelyard Blues. Jane Fonda and Donald Sutherland were great in "Klute", and Peter Boyle was a standout in "Joe". All three are social outcasts in this comedy-drama, a crazy caper to steal parts that will launch an antique airplane to take them where there are no jails. Somehow, however, their antics always seem to just miss the mark.

Jane is a hooker, Sutherland a petty thief and three-time loser. Boyle an escapee from a mental institution, once a circus performer and human fly. In addition, there is a young fellow called the Kid, who apparently can do nothing more than play a guitar, unless it is rigging up a box of dynamite; Duval, a pickpocket and mechanic; and Sutherland's brother, a "straight" district attorney.

One of the problems with "Steelyard Blues" is its attempt to portray the three characters as being involved in some sort of revolutionary ethic. It doesn't work. On a simpler level, it just isn't very funny, or peopled with really interesting characters.

More character and less "hippiness" is in order here but those who feel Fonda, Sutherland and Boyle can rise above weak writing will enjoy Steelyard Blues. PG.

King Kong Escapes, a children's show, will be shown Saturday afternoon.

GUEST SOLOISTS SET

For Trinity Concert. Jean Hakes, soprano and Gerard Schwarz trumpet will be featured guest soloists during the Sixth Annual Spring Concert by the Choir of Men and Boys of Trinity Church in Princeton on this Sunday at 7:30 p.m. in the church on Mercer St.

Miss Hakes and Mr. Schwarz are the soloists in the Cantata No. 51 by Bach. Other works on the program will be the "Lord Nelson" Mass by Haydn and the Motet VI by Bach. The 45 voice choir, guest soloists and solo quartet will be accompanied by an orchestra from the Collegium Musicum of Princeton.

Jean Hakes was an early member of the famed New York Pro Musica, and made many recordings with the group. She is now Professor of Voice at Brooklyn College, and a well-known soloist in the New York area and on the concert series of various colleges and universities.

She has sung at McCarter Theatre with the New York Chamber Soloists. In addition to her fame as a performer of Bach, Handel, Mozart and Haydn, she is in great demand as an interpreter of Medieval and Contemporary music.

Gerard Schwarz has been the first trumpet player in the American Symphony Orchestra, has played concerts throughout the world, and has recently received excellent reviews for his just released recordings on Nonesuch Records. He has also recorded for Columbia Records in recordings with the organist, E. Power Biggs.

Other soloists in the Haydn Mass will be Shirley Kinsley, mezzo-soprano, John McLain, tenor and John Woodard baritone. The Choir of Men and Boys of Trinity Church is made up of boys nine years of age through high school age and men from area colleges and universities. In addition to singing the Sunday 11:00 Service each week at Trinity in Princeton, the choir has presented many concerts throughout the East Coast. The choir's recent recording of Iain Hamilton's "Epitaph for This World and Time" on CRI Records has received rave reviews. James Litton, organist and choirmaster of Trinity Church, will be the conductor for the concert.

Cards of admission are available for a donation of $2 for adults and $1 for students. They may be purchased from members of the choir, at the church office and at the door on the evening of the concert. The donations will be used toward the expenses of the concert and to provide summer camp scholarships for choir boys.

CONCERT ARTIST: Pianist Phyllis Lehrer is among those who will take part in the Festival of Chamber Music Monday evening at 8:30 in Alexander Hall. A Westminster Choir College faculty member, she is a resident of Kendall Park. Proceeds will benefit the University-NOW Day Nursery.

CONCERT THIS TUESDAY

By Westminster Faculty. Westminster Choir College will present a concert of chamber music this Tuesday, at 8 p.m. The concert, which is open to the public without charge, will be held in the Westminster Playhouse.

The program will include Benedetto Marcello's "Sonata in G minor," for recorder, cello, and harpsichord; Mozart's "Quartet in A Major, K. 298," for flute, violin, viola, and cello; Chopin's "Polonaise Brillante," for cello & piano; Ravel's "Songs for Voice, Piano, Flute, and Cello;" and "Concerto Pathetique for Two Solo Pianos" by Liszt.

The Liszt work will be performed by William and Louise Cheadle. Other performers will include Lucille Hardgrove, recorder; Joan Coullette Thompson, cello; Richard Ludlum, harpsichord; Jayn Seigel, flute; Nadia Koutzen, violin; Ray Robinson, violin; and soprano Judith Nicosia.

With the exception of Dr. Robinson, all of the performers are members of the Westminster Choir College Preparatory Department faculty.

ORGANIST TO PERFORM

At Lawrenceville Chapel. Organist Herbert Burtis will perform music by Jan Pieter Sweelinck, J. S. Bach, and Ernst Pepping this Sunday at 4 p.m. in the Edith Memorial Chapel at The Lawrenceville School.

Mr. Burtis has been the director of music and fine arts of the United Methodist Church of Red Bank, New Jersey for the past fifteen years. He holds degrees from Columbia University and from Union Theological Seminary's School of Sacred Music in New York City.

He has been heard in concert throughout the United States, Europe and the West Indies and appears as soloist on the organ, piano and harpsichord, as well as one half of a successful duo piano team with Eleanor Benoist.

The program is open to the public and is without charge.

UNITED VOICES TO SING

At Concert Saturday. The members of Stevenson Hall, an undergraduate college of the University, will sponsor a free concert this Saturday at 4 p.m. on the rear lawn at 83 Prospect Avenue.

There will be singing and clapping of hands as the "United Voices," choir of the First Baptist Church of Princeton, will present a program of songs and joyful sounds in the gospel tradition.

The concert will be moved to the upstairs lounge at 91 Prospect Avenue in the event of rain. Everyone is invited.

"A TOAST TO ISRAEL"

At Artist Showcase Theater. In honor of Israel's 25th anniversary a blend of early and modern Jewish music will be presented Saturday evening at Artist Showcase Theater.

The Theater is located at 1450 Indiana Avenue in Trenton, near the Brunswick Theater. Admission is $2.50.

Regina Spiegel is coordinator for the first part of the program, "A Toast to Israel," which includes a choral rendering of "Songs of Solomon" and "Sinfonia" by the 17th century Italian musician Salamone Rossi. Sacred music by Ernest Bloch and "Suite on Hebrew Themes" by the Russian composer Prokofiev will also be heard.

The second half will be a composite of Yemenite, Chasidic, Sabra and theatrical type songs and dances of the Jewish people. Jane Porter, who has danced with the Rikudom Israeli Dancers, and Jerry Kaplan, who instructs folk dancing at the Princeton and Lawrence adult schools, will demonstrate the dances.

SONGS AND A DRAWING

From PHS Choir. The only public concert to be given by the Princeton High School Choir before its departure for Vienna, will be held Saturday, May 12, at 8:30 p.m. in Alexander Hall.

It's a fund raising event to help send the PHS singers and chaperones to central Europe for their series of invitational concerts. Tickets, at $4 for adults and $2 for students, may be reserved by calling the high school's office, 924-5600.

The night of the concert is also the night of the drawing for prizes, including the grandfather's and "grandmother's" clocks.

The full choir program for the evening will be announced next week. William Trego, the choir's director, will conduct and Nancianne Parella will be the accompanist.

MAP FOR GYPSIES: Three Township areas (rectangles with hatch marks) will be depopulated of the predator gypsy moth this month under a state program using a low-flying airplane. (Map has been compressed for illustrative purposes). State biologists said this week they may experiment in the Woodfield area (far left) with either Dipel or Thuricide, bacilli preparations which kill gypsy moths after moths feed on the substance. Neither Dipel nor Thuricide is toxic, except to the gypsy and to caterpillar moths. If the state decides to experiment, the substances will be dispensed from planes on two occasions at ten-day intervals, and because the project is experimental, the Township wouldn't have to pay.

GROVE TO RESIGN

As Head of Middle School. Thornton Grove, now in his third year as principal of the Middle School, will resign at the end of the school year to become principal of a junior-senior high in Pine Dale, Wyoming, about 70 miles from Jackson Hole and the Tetons. The county-wide school has 607 pupils in grades k-12 and about 300 in the junior-senior level, Mr. Grove said.

He told reporters he discovered Pine Dale two years ago while on a family camping trip. He talked with the superintendent there and said, "If something opens, let me know," he related. He received a letter this spring and visited the school during Easter vacation.

"I'm pleased with the Princeton school system," he said, "but we want another life style for our family—back packing, skiing, life in the open. We plan to cut our own logs and build a cabin on a plot of ground we have."

Mr. Grove joined the Township school system as a math teacher in 1961. He was assistant principal of the Middle School before taking the principal's job three years ago. Formal acceptance of the new job hinges on Wyoming certification.

LIGHTS TO DIM

In Library Protest. Next Tuesday at noon, libraries in Princeton will dim their lights, joining other libraries across the country in a program sponsored by the American Library Association and designed to acquaint users with the possibility of cuts in service as a result of the drastically reduced support for libraries in the proposed Federal budget and the impounding of funds in the present budget.

Librarians feel that the elimination of funds in the proposed 1974 Federal budget will severely hamper the libraries ability to provide needed information and services. Since Congress initiated direct Federal aid to libraries in 1956, substantial funds have been made available to libraries at all levels. The proposed budget eliminates all these funds.

While most of the libraries in Princeton receive substantial local and State support, among the programs still affected in New Jersey would be those for the aged, blind and physically handicapped, consulting services provided by the State to local libraries, public library construction, enrichment of school and college library collections, and state-wide interlibrary loan services.

Libraries are now finding new ways of broadening the people's access to knowledge through the sharing of resources such as the New Jersey State Library Network. These innovative patterns of library service have been nourished by Federal funding, and it is most unfortunate that the proposed Federal budget eliminates this essential support at the very time when it could stimulate still greater progress.

On May 8, the lights will be dimmed in the following libraries as an expression of concern: Princeton Public Library, Westminster Choir College Library, Princeton Institute for Advanced Study Library, Princeton Theological Seminary Library, and Princeton University Library. Additional information on the proposed budget cuts and the effect on library service is available in each of these libraries.

KINDERGARTEN DATES

Registration Next Week. Registration for kindergarten in the Princeton Regional Schools will take place on the mornings of Monday, May 7, Tuesday, May 8, and Wednesday, May 9, and on Tuesday May 8, 7:30-9:00 p.m.

Registration will take place in Johnson Park, Littlebrook, Riverside and John Witherspoon schools. Each elementary school will handle registration for any building and will forward the completed forms to the child's assigned school.

Children who will be 5 on or before November 30, 1973, are eligible. At the time of registration, parents or guardians are requested to bring their child's birth certificate and medical records, including proof of polio and D.P.T. immunization.

FILM SCHEDULED

By Public Library. The Public Library will present, Tuesday, at 8 p.m., "People's Choice", an audience-participation movie program, which will be the final program in the current monthly series of "Movies at 8 p.m.". Films of interest to children, films as an art form, and films for use by discussion groups will comprise the offerings.

Members of the audience will be invited to cast a vote for those films that would be suitable for the Library's collection. The free 75 minute program will be open to the public.

Office Complex Questioned.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

In regard to the proposed office complex on Harrison, Valley and Ewing Streets, the original plan, as stated to us several months ago, was for the erection of a small office building which has now expanded into two large connecting buildings surrounded by a slab of blacktop large enough to park 100 cars.

This area is still not enough parking for the size of the building, so the appellants are requesting a variance for reduced parking besides the request to change the zoning from single family residential to allow for the office buildings. We believe there are reasons for the whole community to be concerned.

First now 16 professional offices, which we will assume means an average of 3 staff members or auxiliary personnel per office or a total of approximately 48 persons, will be included in this proposed office complex.

Second, a large area of blacktop for parking, which if the 48 person figure is correct leaves only 52 places for clients or three per office. This does not seem adequate. Where do the people park? On Ewing Street? At the Shopping Center?

Third, an office complex with sixteen offices and approximately 48 people in residence eight hours of the day appears to put a potentially large input on an already capacity sewage system. Likewise, what would happen with the run-off from the extensive area of blacktop?

Fourth, the traffic situation is already hazardous at the intersection of Valley Road and Harrison Street without adding a substantial additional burden to a treacherous location.

Fifth is there really a need for a 16 office complex in this area? A need urgent enough for a zoning change? A need urgent enough to erect site barriers just outside the back yards of single family homes? A need urgent enough to weak en an already precarious environment by more blacktop and sewage input? A need urgent enough to add to the already bad traffic congestion? A need more urgent than the previously declined Post Office location or previously declined bank location?

We hope many people will rethink their priorities and appear for the Princeton Township Board of Adjustment meeting on May 17, 8 p.m. at the Township Hall.

Fight Gypsy Moths Now!

To the Editor of Town Topics:

This Easter weekend, with the help of three young friends, we removed and subsequently burned approximately 1,975 gypsy moth egg masses from Woodfield Reservation. Sunday we collected in Herrontown Woods and removed 228 egg masses. We also visited Marquand Park and the Institute Woods but found no egg masses, much to our relief.

The State Forestry Service considers 250 egg masses per acre a "critical" infestation. Our findings of approximately 600 per acre in Woodfield Reservation must be characterized as "massive" infestation, most of which is confined to the uplands. The density in Herrontown Woods appears to be on the order of 100 per acre, though even this amount is serious for next season.

Of immediate concern is the fact that the gypsy moth eggs have begun to hatch. Most egg masses on the sunny side of trees now display small colonies of quarter-inch black caterpillars.

The cold temperatures of the past few days have retarded their movement. But not long remains before hatching is complete and the caterpillars will have begun their wind-blown dispersal on filaments of web.

Woodfield Reservation is on the northwesterly wind axis with the Borough and Township. It is not more than two miles from the center of town. It is about three-and-a-half miles from the Institute Woods. Gypsy moth larva have been known to float downwind as much as 30 miles.

I know nothing of egg mass density in private lands along the Rocky Hill Ridge, of which Woodfield and Herrontown are a part, but I think it is hazardous to assume that these are the only areas of infestation. If Woodfield and other forest lands are to be saved, and if the Borough and Township are to be spared a crisis of defoliation and dying trees next year and the years following, then several things must be done.

First, there must be an earnest egg mass collecting campaign in the few days remaining before larva dispersal is complete. A few dozen energetic collectors in Woodfield and Herrontown could, in the next ten days, go far to halting this plague in its tracks.

Second, the proposal of the Township Committee to authorize spraying soon after May first should be supported. The gypsy moth is highly vulnerable at this larval stage, so amounts of "Sevin" can be modest not more than one quart per acre, I am told. When the caterpillars are full grown the amounts of pesticide required would be ecologically prohibitive.

The most decisive and precise way to combat gypsy moth despoliation is to remove and burn the egg masses. Ideally this should commence in the fall, as soon as the leaves are gone, and should continue through till hatching time at the end of April. For those who may be persuaded to try to tip the scales now, here are some of the things we have learned.

Equip yourself with a soft metal can (an aluminum soft drink can with the rim cut away is best), with a blunt round knife, and with a plastic bag into which the egg can be accumulated. To handle egg masses or larva colonies above arm's reach, carry a paint broomstick with a sponge bound to one end.

Soak the sponge with charcoal lighter or paint thinner and after a few initial swats, to saturate the colony, rub away. A ladder might be helpful, but it is difficult to lug through the woods.

The gypsy moth egg mass is unmistakable. It looks like a piece of dried chamois. Nothing comparable is to be found, and with brief practice one can spot a patch fifty feet away.

Egg masses are found mostly on tree trunks and saplings not higher than a seven foot reach. A few are found on the sides of rocks and the undersides of suspended logs. The vaster numbers, however, are so accessible, even for a short person, and so plainly visible that several acres can be cleared in an hour or so. For masses or colonies above standing reach, a sponge pole or ladder will be necessary. But most collecting, one soon finds, can be done within arm's reach on the ground.

To dispose of the eggs, saturate the day's collection with a petroleum distillate and burn in a safe place. The eggs, which are pearl colored and about the size of poppy seed, will crackle like popcorn. For anyone who has seen what the gypsy moth caterpillar can do as, for example, the Kittatinny Ridge this is a reassuring sound.

ton Township Shade Tree Commission, one of my first duties was to sign six-month permits for Public Service and New Jersey Bell to cut off branches of trees interfering with electric and telephone lines, and remove branches and/or small trees in the way of new lines to be installed.

This is routine — twice a year you sign permits, and they keep sawing. Obviously it is necessary, for if nobody kept the trees trimmed back, branches could knock wires down or short them, and we citizens would lose the function of our telephones, electric lights, refrigerators, etc. In what I say here, I do not intend any criticism of PSEG or NJB — they do a good job under the circumstances.

But wouldn't it be better in the long run to bury our new power and phone lines, and gradually replace our present aerial lines with buried ones, than to keep hacking away at our trees each year?

Every increase in urbanization of Princeton means less trees in order to make room for more houses (or apartments), streets, etc.; so why further reduce our leafy canopy of summer coolness by chopping branches off the trees that we have left, to make airspace for that nonpareil trademark of the electronic age, the pole with wires strung from it?

I'd rather dig the service wires down into mole country and keep our trees whole. A whole tree looks better than half a tree.

In 1971 the Planning Board adopted a new regulation making it mandatory for future developments to have underground service wires (instead of overhead), and I believe the Board's thinking was that eventually all existing service wires would be put underground.

But apparently there is now no schedule and no budget for putting them there. Why not designate a few streets each year for conversion, and if the cost falls too heavily on anyone or on the Township in a single year, let's spread the payment schedule over several years.

Some things clearly should be done, yet are too expensive to do all at once, so the solution is to do them by degrees and pay a little each year.

Thus it could be with wires — by the time we reach the end of the last street and conclude a moderate payment schedule, our trees will have filled out the gaps in their crowns. I think we should start burying wires now.

Len Brown Case Injustices.

To the Editor of TOWN TOPICS:

I am greatly disappointed at the findings of the East Brunswick court in the Len Brown-Howard Johnsons-State Police dispute. Given the presuppositions of the Judge and the deviousness of the State Police and the overkill of the Attorney General's office, however, the outcome is not surprising.

Item: initial responsibility for the dispute. Judge Schneider on the first day disallowed testimony from a restaurant employee on Howard Johnson's operating procedures. This employee told me he "was very upset" over "being set up for a conflict" due to short-staffing.

The Judge helped cover up the corporation's responsibility for creating conditions leading to a presurprised atmosphere in the restaurant. Given this policy, the State Police were acting as enforcers for whenever customers failed to be passive.

Item: State Police conduct throughout. The Troopers didn't have Len out of the restaurant before they began calling him "nigger". Also they seemed incapable of perceiving there was no longer a problem and couldn't interview Len without sitting him in their car.

Furthermore, they later talked a restaurant employee into filing charges against Len in addition to the ones they filed. The hierarchy did not even suspend with pay or reassign the Trooper accused of beating Len. State Police officials then conned a Flemington Barracks Trooper into writing up a "special report" claiming Len expressed anger upon getting a ticket 2 years ago and dragged him into the court to lamely testify.

Finally there was the absurd attempt to obscure identities via the three Troopers changing their appearance by growing or shaving mustaches. This all — like Watergate — smells of coverup, not responsible reform.

Item: State response. Attorney General Kugler's office assigned G. Michael Brown to prosecute Len and defend the Troopers. This public official several times displayed overt racist attitudes — challenged once by Councilman Joseph Moore and another time by outbursts from the audience.

Beleagured taxpayers should know that from 4-6 other top

RENTS ARE UP

For Discussion. The seven members of the Borough's new Housing Advisory Committee, formed to study possible rent control, were harangued for over two hours Thursday night at their first meeting with the public.

About eight landlords and half a dozen tenants attended the Borough Hall gathering. Benjamin Kahn, a landlord, and his son Alfred, a property-manager, questioned the qualifications of several Committee members. The group was appointed by Mayor Robert W. Cawley.

They challenged the membership of Romus Broadway as a non-Borough resident, and protested that no landlords were on the body.

(Mayor Cawley said Tuesday that actual residence in the Borough needn't, legally, be a qualification to serve. His appointment to the group of Archibald S. Alexander Jr., an attorney, fills the seven-member quota, he said, and he does not plan additional appointments. The group is scheduled to report to Borough Council next Tuesday.)

No Legislative Power. Committee Chairman Fred Tyler explained Thursday that little documented evidence exists on the rental situation, and he asked for facts and opinions. His Committee, he emphasized, had no power to enact a law.

Landlords, more vocal than the tenants, were unanimous in believing no rent control law was necessary. "If there were real need, tenants would be here screaming," said Gerald Silvester. He added that low rent and high taxes were incompatible.

Mr. Alexander asked if Mr. Silvester would give the Committee a record of the rents he has charged over the past five years. Mr. Silvester said he would provide information "depending on how much detail you want," but he balked when Mr Alexander proposed that if a property is owned by a corporation, the corporation's tax returns might be helpful to the committee.

Objections Are Many. "Why should landlords suffer?" Mr. Silvester asked. "Inflation isn't their responsibility."

"It gripes me that this Committee has only tenants on it and no property-managers," protested Alfred Kahn. "I had heard it would be a kangaroo court with kangaroo rats on it! You don't know the close relationship landlords have with tenants; they come to us when they're in trouble, and rent control would only cause hard feelings."

"There's no need for hostility," said Mary Capouya, a member of the committee. "We were chosen for our knowledge of the area; we know both landlords and tenants, and we want to see the whole picture beyond our own experience."

Ridgely Cook, of Abbott and Cook, the real-estate firm, said municipal policy against construction of apartments caused high rents.

"If there were other housing, apartments couldn't command the luxury prices they do now," he declared. "It's a question of supply and demand. Let's get some apartments built before we think about rent control."

The Tenant's View. The tenant of a single-family house, John Rice, charged his landlord with "milking" the property, and having no intention of repairing it.

Mr. Kahn proposed the Borough allow subdivision of Shirley Court an area where sharp rent increases prompted formation of the committee to allow tenant purchase. "Let them carry the taxes, put in the new kitchens," he said.

Elsie Robinson, a resident of Shirley Court, said, "Low-income people have been here a long time. We can't afford these high rents; we need a little consideration."

Rahsaan Pannell, who also identified himself as a tenant, charged that Princeton landlords "don't give a damn about shacks that are unfit to live in." He cited rental units on Witherspoon and Quarry Street.

Members of the committee are Sarah Wilhelm, Louise Stephenson, Romus Broadway, Archibald S. Alexander, Mary Capouya, Fred Tyler and Marcia Crimmins.

ARBOR DAY MARKED

In West Windsor. The rain stopped just in time Saturday morning to let a dozen West Windsor residents of all ages plant their Arbor Day specimens. Ten ten-foot tall European Mountain Ash went in at the Township's two primary schools.

Phil Evans, a landscaper who supplied the trees, and Walter Kaplonski, a soon-to-be graduated horticulturist from Mercer County Community College and next president of the West Windsor Garden Club, provided on the spot advice on proper trimming and staking of the ornamental trees.

On Friday, the Chairman of the Recreation Committee, Bernt Midland, planted 100 forsythia at Hendrickson Drive tennis courts. The activity marked West Windsor's second annual commemoration of Arbor Day.

FUND DRIVE BEGUN

By W. Windsor Aid Squad. During May residents of West Windsor Township are being asked to contribute to the support of the Twin W First Aid Squad, Inc., their emergency First Aid service.

Since the Twin W made their first call on August 21 of last year the squad has answered more than 180 calls; both emergency first aid calls and medical transportation calls. The 43 senior active volunteers and the nine cadet members have completed more than 650 man hours of first aid duty. The squad has driven more than 3,497 miles in their two fully equipped ambulances.

As the first step in the squad's fund drive during May, National First Aid Month, letters are being sent to all West Windsor residents telling about the squad's service to the community and enclosing a sticker with the township's emergency telephone number to be affixed to the home telephone. The letter will be followed up by a visit from one of the squad members, or associate members asking for a contribution. The members of the Twin W are also planning on visiting the area businesses and soliciting their support. If for any reason a West Windsor resident does not have a squad member call, the resident is asked to please send his donation to P. O Box 385, Princeton Junction, New Jersey 08550.

Antiques Show Saturday

Unique one-of-a-kind treasures will abound Saturday at the fourth annual Antiques Show & Sale at the Princeton Shopping Center.

Some 30 dealers from New Jersey and New York will display a wide variety of general type antiques from 10 to 4.

Dealers specializing in old collector items in brass, jewelry, dolls, furniture and the much sought after steamr trunks will be on hand.

Admission is free to the public and is sponsored by the shopping center's Merchants Association.

BALLOON FLIGHT SET

For This Saturday. The YMCA Ranger Clubs invite everyone to visit the YMCA field this Saturday at 2 p.m. when the Chalet Club Balloon will take off from the Y field. The Giant Blue and White Balloon piloted by Philip Hallstein will demonstrate the fun of ballooning and also support the Rangers in promoting their Royal Wild West Circus to be held Sunday, May 20 also at the Y field.

The flight plan is to give a brief lecture and demonstration on ballooning before the flight. It will be tethered from 30 to 60 feet depending on air currents and will take one half hour to fill with 56,000 cubic feet of air. It is 75 feet high.

Attorney General officials were there — watching — for 5 days.

Item: Judicial biases. In explaining his rulings, Judge Schneider used the character testimony for Len of Mayor Cawley, Councilman Moore and Leslie Vivian of the University against him. A paraphrase of the thinking went: he is such a fine person that he must have been drunk to have so forcefully demanded service.

No possibility that Len was responding to arbitrariness of racism. No possibility Len was simply expressing his emotions as a liberated male. No possibility that Supreme Court redefinitions of obscene language applies.

Most important, tho in the Judge's rulings is the unanswered question of how Len got bashed up between Hujus and the police station if Trooper Grant didn't pound him.

These issues lie beneath the accounts. We should be more outraged now than before for injustice has been compounded. Princetonians should express undiminished support of Len in both his continued professional work and in his civil suit against Trooper Grant which is to be filed.

For Len — alone among the characters in this tragic-farce — has maintained his integrity. Justice has yet to be done.

The Civil Rights movement began with Blacks rejecting overt public accommodations discrimination and police brutality. It's the same but more subtle. We can't do much right now abtou wrong doing and coverup in the White House, but its election season for the N. J. statehouse. . . .

$100 FOR FIRE COMPANIES: Mrs. Fred Lorenz of the Welcome Wagon Club of Hopewell presents a check for $100 to Frank Voorhees, Fire Chief of Hopewell, for use toward the purchase of a portable water reservoir to be shared by the three volunteer fire companies of Hopewell, Pennington and Titusville. Also present, from left, are Chief Michael Pinelli of Pennington, Mrs. William Quinn, and Second Assistant Chief Dick Vannoy of Titusville. (Marie Bellis Photo)

News Of Clubs and Organizations

Welcome Wagon Club of Hopewell Valley has contributed $150 to the three volunteer fire companies of Hopewell, Pennington and Titusville to be used toward the purchase of a portable water reservoir.

This 2500 gallon canvas tank folds up and is taken to the fire to be used while the truck returns to get more water. The cost of the portable reservoir is around $800. It will be kept at the Pennington Fire Company as the most central location, but will be shared by the three fire companies.

The club will close its year's activities with a luncheon May 8 at Chez Odette in New Hope, Pa. The officers for the next year will be installed. Mrs. John Reynolds, hostess, can be reached at 737-3140, if any newcomer desires more information.

On Sunday, May 6 Dr. Gertrude Dubrovsky will speak at 8:15 p.m. at the Princeton Jewish Center 435 Nassau Street. The lecture, sponsored by the Adult Education committee, will be based on "Kentucky," a book of Jewish poems written by I. J. Schwartz in the period between 1918 and 1922. The book, which has been translated by Dr. Dubrovsky, deals with the Jewish immigrant experience in rural America.

Dr. Dubrovsky received her Doctorate from Columbia University Teachers College. She resides here and teaches English at Rider and Yiddish at Princeton Hillel.

Princeton Chapter, American Red Cross, will hold its annual dinner meeting on Wednesday, May 16, at Bedens Brook Country Club. Speaker for the occasion will be the Rev. Dr. Elmer Homrighausen, Professor Emeritus at Princeton Theological Seminary. There will be a brief business meeting, including election of officer and members of the board of directors. The public is invited, to make reservations, call Red Cross headquarters, 921-2301.

The Princeton Music Club program for the final meeting of the season on May 9th is dedicated to Mathilde McKinney for her outstanding contributions to music in the Princeton area and the club. Members will meet at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Ruben at 8:30 p.m.

First on the program is Ravel's Don Quichotte a Dulcinee with Mrs. McKinney will then play Serenade en La by Stravinsky and Six Little Piano Pieces, Op. 19 by Schoenberg. Lawana Ingle, soprano, will then sing Chansons de Ronsard by Milhaud, again accompanied by Mrs. McKinney. Closing the program, Arnold Popkin, piano pupil of Mrs. McKinney, will play Sonata No. 3 in B Minor, Op. 58, by Chopin.

The Newcomers Club 12:30 p.m. Thursday, May 10. A panel of women will speak on the role of the contemporary woman in the politics of today. The speakers will be Mary Tanner, Legislative Chairman, New Jersey League of Women Voters; Barbara Sigmund, Democratic member Borough Council; and Barbara Smoyer, Republican member Township Committee. They will discuss why women can become more involved in community politics.

The Gourmet and Interior Decorating & Gardening Groups will sponsor its final event of the year with a combined "Art on the Fence at Twilight Cocktail Time" party and exhibit of art work and sculpture from area Galleries. Some of the exhibitors will be Susuki, Ltd., Mercer Street; South Gallery; and the Drawing Room. The event will be at the home of Jack and Grace Frost.

The Fine Arts group will have a trip to Washington Crossing Open Air Theatre on June 29. They will see "1776." Those interested in this trip can contact Ann Reitzel. The Town and Country Tours group is going to Williamsburg on June 8, 9, and 10. There are still openings for this trip.

The Dinner Bridge of the Couples Bridge Group will be on June 10 and will be the final event of the year. The June 7 meeting of the Club will be a luncheon at the Present Day Club. Nursery is available for the meeting. Call 799-0455 or 466-3172.

New Jersey Association for Children with Learning Disabilities, Mercer section: parents meeting, 8 p.m., Tuesday, at 130 Review Avenue, Trenton. For directions, call Mrs. John Belvedere at 882-3740.

In celebration of the 25th anniversary of the State of Israel and the founding of the Princeton Chapter of Hadassah, the chapter will sponsor a dinner-dance Saturday evening at Prospect on the university campus.

The dance will be preceded by cocktails at 7:30 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Simon Fried, Landfall, Lawrenceville. Music will be provided by the Dick Lincoln Trio. Chairman for the event is Mrs. Martin Savrick, 799-1461.

The proceeds from the dance will go towards support of the Hadassah Medical Organization in Israel, the largest medical complex in the Middle East, and one which serves all residents of Israel.

An aluminum can recycling day on Saturday, May 12 will be sponsored by the Princeton Council 636, Knights of Columbus for the benefit of St. Paul's Biddy basketball league. R. J. Reynolds and Co. will have their aluminum recycling van at St. Paul's parking lot between the hours of 9 and 3. For those who cannot deliver on this day, pickups can be arranged by calling 924-1602 or 359-3536.

Pharmacy Footnotes

by Mel Atlas, Reg. Pharm.

Ever feel that your body is full of adrenaline? Ever hear a performer use an expression like "the adrenaline was really flowing"? Adrenaline is a substance secreted by the adrenals, which are glands placed like caps on the upper end of each kidney. Removal or destruction of both adrenal glands results in death within twenty-four hours unless substitute therapy is provided, so you can see how important these two small glands are to you. The adrenal glands stimulate the body to work at its top efficiency especially when under stress.

ABOUT REVENUE SHARING Discussion Set. "Revenue Sharing and Human Need" will be discussed by a panel of government officials and consumer representatives on Tuesday, May 15, at 8:30 p.m. at the Unitarian Church of Princeton. The symposium, open to the public, is sponsored jointly by the Princeton Area Council of Community Services and the Family Service Agency of Princeton as the program for their combined annual meetings.

The meeting is designed to inform citizens of the funds that will be allocated to their state and local governments, discuss priorities for use of funds, and outline the pressures that confront the local political leaders who have responsibility for disbursing the money.

Dr. Alan Rosenthal, associate director of Rutger's Eagleton Institute of Politics, will moderate the panel. State and county officials on the panel include John F. Leazza, Director of the Division of Local Government Services, New Jersey Department of Community Affairs, and Mercer County Freeholder Charles E. Farrington, chairman of Finance and Revenue.

Other invited panelists are representatives of Congressman Peter H. B. Frelinghuysen, State Senator William E. Schulter and State Assemblyman Karl Weidel. Mayors of the 13 municipalities served by the Family Service Agency and the Council of Community Services have been invited to be a responding panel.

Consumer and private funding representatives will be Murray Reich, 1973-74 budget chairman of the Princeton United Fund; Susan Waxwood, chairman of the Mercer County Council on Aging and member of the Princeton Joint Commission on Aging; and Ingrid Reed of West Windsor, member of the Mercer County Planning Board and the Council of Community Services.

Each panelist will be asked how revenue sharing has already affected the budgeting process and what priorities may be for revenue sharing funds. Interested individuals and organizations are invited to attend and ask their own questions.

BIRTHS

Sixteen Are Born. Nine boys and seven girls, including one set of twins, were born last week at Princeton Medical Center.

Parents of the twin girls, born April 24, are Mr. and Mrs. Harold Daume, 134 Dorchester Drive, East Windsor.

Daughters were also born to: Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Baird, 180 Frank Corner Road, Trenton; Mr. and Mrs. Richard Heher, 39 Green Ave., Lawrenceville, both April 24; Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Panker, 29 Virginia Road, Kendall Park, April 25; Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Demarest, 5 Pearl St., Allentown and Mr. and Mrs. Glen Harris, Apt. L1 Wynnbrook West, Hightstown, both April 27.

Sons were born to: Mr. and Mrs. James Hultgren, 26 College Road, Princeton, April 22; Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Morse, 811 Lawrence Court, Princeton, April 23; Mr. and Mrs. John Parillo, 112 Riva Ave., Milltown, April 25; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Volpe, 26 Melville Road, Cranbury; and Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Rosenhouse, 27 Dubbie Lane, East Windsor, both April 26.

Also, Mr. and Mrs. Victor Tarssov, 64 Lillie St., Princeton Junction, April 27; Mr. and Mrs. Pierre Cognet, 87 Hartley Ave., Princeton; Mr. and Mrs. Zeev Weinberg 219 Halsey St., Princeton, and Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Bluth, 172 Bennington Drive, Hightstown, all April 28.

COURSE SCHEDULED

On Water Safety. The Princeton Chapter of the American Red Cross will offer a water safety instructor course at the Peddie School in Hightstown. Mrs. Susan Mapes Wood, Red Cross instructor - trainer will be assisted by Mrs. Sally Skey, water safety instructor.

The Red Cross course will start Tuesday and be held each Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday in the month of May from 7 to 10 p.m. Registration will be limited to 25 students.

PATCHWORK, AND BEAUTIFUL: Mrs. James Jennings and Mrs. Huson Gregory display two of the patchwork quilts that will be offered for sale at the Princeton Day School Foir, to be held this year at the school on Saturday, May 12.

Persons are eligible who have passed their 17th birthday, and hold a current Red Cross Senior Life Saving certificate. Call Princeton Chapter, American Red Cross, 924-2404 to register as soon as possible.

MINK STOLES OFERED

To Mother's Day Mothers. Two women who become mothers this Mother's Day will be presented with Natural Autumn Haze Mink stoles by the Flemington Fur Company of Flemington. Flemington Furs will honor both the youngest and the oldest women who give birth on Sunday, May 13.

Any woman who becomes a mother on May 13 may qualify for the mink stole awards, valued at more than $500 each, by writing to the Flemington Fur Company, 8 Spring Street, Flemington, New Jersey 08822. Verification that the child was born on May 13, 1973, plus the name of the hospital and the doctor and the mother's date of birth should be provided. All entries must be postmarked no later than May 21. Winners of the prizes will be notified by mail.

BOOK SALE PLANNED

At Pennington Library. The Free Public Library in Pennington, about to move to a new location, will hold its sixth annual book sale of nearly-new, not-so-new and old books - paperbacks and hardcover — at bargain prices. It will be held at the library — 200 South Main Street, Pennington, on Friday, May 11, from 1 till 9 and on Saturday, May 12, from 10 till noon.

Books for the sale are donated by the community and are still being accepted. Bring donations to the library or call 737-0404 during the afternoon if assistance is needed with delivery.

SCOUT SHOW PLANNED

This Weekend. Nearly 2,000 Cub Scouts, Boy Scouts and Explorers will fill the New Jersey Department of Defense Armory on Eggerts Crossing Road, Lawrence Township, this weekend. They will demonstrate their skills and knowledge in such varied areas as railroading, fingerprinting, atomic energy, drug abuses, public health and monkey bridge building.

The Scout Show will feature boys from Mercer, Hunterdon and Warren counties this Friday, Saturday and Sunday. Hunter Harvey, George Washington Council general show chairman, said that more than 75 booths at the Armory will be used to exhibit the talents of the boys. "Special awards will be made", he said, "to the Cubs, Scouts and Explorers who do the best jobs with their booths. We have a panel of judges who will evaluate all the booths on Saturday."

Several Scout units will camp overnight at the Armory site and demonstrate their camping techniques for visitors.

Although Scouts throughout the three-county area have been selling tickets for more than a month, tickets will also

DID YOU KNOW YOUR SKIN IS PROTEIN TOO?

It's true. Most people today know about hair being protein, well, your skin is protein too. And, just like your hair, your skin needs special protection and care to guard its very precious protein content!

We created a revolutionary line of acid-balanced, naturally-organic skin products. Redken's Amino-Pon Beauty Bar is the famous pink bar that smells like strawberries and has a pH of 5.5 to conform to the natural acid balance of your skin.

Redken's Proderma Creme is a highly-concentrated blend of rich lubricants, proteins and moisturizers. These scientifically-formulated skin care products are available at Chelsea Crimpers.

When & why draperies need cleaning.

General soiling:

Dust and dirt accumulate gradually. So much so you may not even notice it. A firm shake of your draperies will make obvious the dust and dirt that has accumulated.

Heating fumes:

All heating systems account for slight acid fumes. These are absorbed by fabrics. Draperies are affected first because of closeness to moisture. This combination weakens fibers, and because of this most manufacturers recommend yearly cleaning.

Sunlight:

The sun has a deteriorating effect on fabrics and colors. Frequent cleaning will reduce this problem.

Sagging:

Natural stretching of fabrics causes puckering of seams, loss of squareness of panels. Adjust-a-Drape can compensate for all of these. And Adjust-a-Drape can even make new draperies look better.

Honorary Degree Awarded to Princeton University Staff Member

A member of Princeton University's technical staff was today awarded an honorary Master's Degree by MacMurray College Jacksonville, Ill., at a Special Honors Convocation. It was the top award presented at the Convocation.

The degree, bestowed upon Harold M. Waage, Lecture Technician for Princeton's Physics Department, crowned 30 years of ingenuity and skill dedicated to helping physics students visualize phenomena. Mr. Waage is retiring in June at age 65.

Born in Two Harbors, Minn., Waage came to Princeton in 1943 after 3 years of study and part-time work as a laboratory assistant at Duluth Teachers' College (now part of the University of Minnesota). More recently he has accumulated credits at Rutgers University.

He became the University's first full-time staff member charged with creating, building and maintaining the equipment used by scientists to illustrate their lectures in physics.

Several Prizes Won. Called a "master of his art" by Professor Emeritus Eric Rogers, with whom Mr. Waage worked closely, his ingenious devices have won five awards from the American Association of Physics Teachers (three first prizes, one third prize, and a special-merit award in the biennial nationwide competition).

How do you get physics students to visualize, measure and understand intangible phenomena? According to Mr. Waage, if you want to illustrate the impact of gas molecules on the walls of a container, you release a stream of 1-2" steel balls into the lecture hall from an opening in the attic.

This demonstration, unexpected and illuminated, has a spectacular impact upon the students as well. The balls land on a lucite plate fixed onto a block of iron on a balanced seesaw which deflects upon impact, thus illustrating the pressure exerted by the balls. Next the balls rebound to about 3-4ths the height of the room and, following a parabolic curve, they are caught near the floor in a net so positioned that the balls all end their flight in it.

HAROLD WAAGE HONORED: Mr. and Mrs. Harold M. Waage, both senior staff members at Princeton University, are seen with one of the ingenious teaching devices that have brought Mr. Waage the distinction of an honorary Master of Arts degree from MacMurray College, Jacksonville, Ill. Mr. Waage has served as lecture technician for Princeton's Department of Physics, since 1943. Mrs. Waage, is head of the bookkeeping section of the University Library and is approaching the 30th anniversary of the date she joined the University staff.

"It demonstrates," says Mr. Waage, "how the gas molecules hit the walls of the container and rebound. And, if the students know the height from which the balls drop, the height of the rebound, and the mass of the balls, they can calculate the expected force, which is found to agree with measurement."

Physics Professor Thomas R. Carver says: "Whether creating a new demonstration by request or simply improving already existing experiments, Waage's work is characterized by a reliability and elegant simplicity which is at ways delightful to behold.

His quiet presence in the lecture room is always a suspenseful delight to the students and leads them soon to realize that although the professor may be writing the bill of fare for the lecture banquet of demonstrations, it is Waage who is the Chef."

Adapting Ideas. "I can't say that anything I've ever done is truly original," says the soft spoken Mr. Waage. "It's only original in the sense that I adapt an idea so that it can be presented to the students; so they can see how it works."

One prize-winning demonstration of Waage's (First Prize from The American Association of Physics Teachers, 1965) gives students their first look at an electrostatic field. For this one, he invented a device which consists of a layer of oil mixed with line rayon flock particles in a lucite tank.

With the addition of electrodes and high voltage, the rayon particles arrange themselves in the direction of the field. Change the electrodes and the pattern of the field changes. Waage mounts this demonstration on an overhead projector and students see it magnified.

Responding to a question about how he creates the demonstration, Waage says, "I go through different stages in not having too much luck with it and redesigning it." In attempting to demonstrate the streamline flow of water, often analogous to the flow of heat, air, and electricity, Waage came up with a device in which slightly alkaline water is made to flow past phenolphthalein beads.

The chemical beads turn alkalies red and students see the flow in lines of pastel pink. Called the Overhead Projection Cell for Streamline Flow, the demonstration won a Special Merit Award from the American Association of Physics Teachers in 1969.

Apart from inventions for Princeton's Physics Department, Mr. Waage has patented one device of his own. A Pitch Fidelity System for electronic organs. It's a computer device used with the standard keyboard which automatically corrects the imperfect tuning of intervals and chords while they are being played. It makes perfect intonation possible and still preserves the unlimited modulation available with the present scale.

Mr. Waage has a small workbench in his Leavitt Lane home here where he experiments with electronics and woodworking but, in looking ahead to his retirement in June, he says, "I might haunt the place quite a bit." The place is Princeton's Palmer Hall where many of the undergraduate physics laboratories and lecture demonstrations are held — and where Harold M. Waage has spent three decades perfecting the highly specialized art which helps students master a difficult science.

UNIVERSITY SETS AWARD

For Rare Book Collector. Mrs. Donald F. Hyde, who with her late husband assembled one of the outstanding private book collections in this country, will be honored by Princeton University Friday, May 11, when she receives the award established in her husband's honor.

She became the sixth recipient of the Hyde award, designed to recognize the collector who "with imagination, knowledge and prerseverance has sought out and preserved records which might otherwise have been lost — the collector who has considered the private possession of great books a public trust and has opened his (her) collections to scholars."

Mrs. Hyde, a native of Detroit and for many years a resident of Four Oaks Farm, Somerville, will be honored at the annual dinner of the Friends of the Princeton University Library in the former Chancellor Green Library.

The presentation, before several hundred members of the Friends and invited guests, will be made by University President William G. Bowen.

Works by Johnson. The Hyde collection includes the world's foremost holdings of the works and correspondence of the 18th century English author Samuel Johnson as well as the second largest collection in this country of Oscar Wilde, including his correspondence with Reginald Turner.

Other outstanding features are a collection of Japanese books and manuscripts in the fields of Japanese classics and the history of printing, a significant George Bernard Shaw collection; Elizabethan material; and the writings of Johnson's disciple and biographer James Boswell, as well as other 18th century authors.

Although known for the collecting done in collaboration with her husband, Mrs. Hyde is a recognized collector in her own right. She began by assembling a small but distinguished group of early 17th-century English plays, stimulated by her graduate work at Columbia University, and since Donald Hyde's death in 1966 has continued to add to the Four Oaks Library.

Cited as a "meticulous scholar whose writings reflect in particular a sympathetic understanding of the age of Samuel Johnson," Mrs. Hyde has through the years offered use of the private library to working scholars, particularly encouraging beginning scholars and collectors.

A graduate of both Vassar (A.B.) and Columbia (M.A. and Ph.D.), she holds honorary degrees from Beaver College, Douglass College, Brown University, and the University of Birmingham (England).

Flower Sale Planned

The Rocky Hill Community Group will hold its annual Mother's Day Flower sale Thursday through Saturday, May 10-12 at the Community House on Washington Street.

Annuals, perennials, geraniums, shrubs, vegetables and herbs will be in plentiful supply. Hanging baskets of fushia and geraniums will again be a major attraction. Featured also this year will be a wide selection of hardy, native-grown azaleas and rhododendrons, plus an attractive selection of Joanna Fiori's pottery.

Hours are noon to 5 Thursday, 10 to 5, Friday and Saturday.

Proceeds from the sale will be used to support the work of the Community Group in the maintaining the Rocky Hill Library, which serves Montgomery Township as well as Rocky Hill. Ann Faranetta and Linda Eveleigh are co-chairmen.

BOOKLET AVAILABLE

On Volunteer Opportunities. Are you a retired person wanting to share your experience? A newcomer wishing to become involved in the community? A teenager looking for something to do? Welcome Aboard

by BUNNY STEIN

Bolivia is not only extremely old, it is very well-preserved. The Spaniards are responsible for much of the charm and magnificence of the architecture in Bolivia. They left many buildings which are exciting to see as well as a heritage of the Spanish language and Spanish customs. Bolivia, especially in the east, is also exciting for its natural beauty. Gorges, canyons, mountains, plateaus . . . it is all worth seeing.

South America has become very popular among tourists in recent years. No matter where you want to go, make your reservations through WELCOME ABOARD TRAVEL CENTER 29 Witherspoon Street . . . In South America you can relax but you can never get bored. You can soak up sun on beaches like Rio's sparkling Copacabana or you can soak up culture in Lima's legend-shrouded old quarter. IT'S NEW To Us

NOW ORGANIC GARDENING At Peterson's Nursery. With this year's crop of flowers and vegetables, Peterson's Nursery and Garden Mart has started to garden organically. Charles Peterson made this decision after he became very sick from pesticide fumes. He is having great success with his new method.

As the owner of one of the leading garden centers in central New Jersey, Mr. Peterson feels he is setting a precedent. H has stopped the use of all pesticides and has employed ladybugs instead. These ladybugs eat not only the adults, but also the eggs, of the aphids and white fly, thereby greatly cutting down on the population growth of these insects.

For a fertilizer, Peterson's is using a liquified seaweed called Maxicrop, and we saw an Aralia Elegatisima (a 5 foot Tropical house plant) that attests to its effectiveness. The new growth on the plant, since the introduction of the seaweed fetilizer, has much longer and broader leaves.

An added benefit of the Maxicrop is that it deters the insects as it contains iodine and other chemicals from the sea that the aphids don't like. This product is also available to the public and a year's supply for the average user is $1.49.

Mulch from Volcanic Rock. Other new products for this season include Earth Rite Lawn and Garden Soil Conditioner, which because it contains barteria produces healthier plants; and here Mr. Peterson showed us some Verbena that was thriving.

There is also a new garden mulch called Flower Rock which is made from volcanic rock and so won't deteriorate. It comes in a reddish brown color that looks marvelous in the garden.

Peterson's deals primarily in small plants and it has about 200 varieties of perennials, 100 different roses, 70 kinds of herbs and many annuals and vegetables. Almost any flower can be found here at a reasonable price.

The large faced multi colored pansies are 89 cents for a pack of 6, and geraniums 4 to a pack are only $1.49. We also saw peony plants for $2.95, three one year old azaleas for $1, and year old Japanese Andromedas, $1.25 each.

Throughout the whole market are beautiful hanging baskets all of which are done on the premises. There are nine different kinds of fushia including red, pink, two-tone pink, lavendar, yellow, and orange, for $6.95. Other baskets contain ivy geraniums, impatiens, etc.

New this year is a six inch hanging basket for small plants, even herbs. We saw one filled with parsely that would be nice in a kitchen window and most accessible when cooking, $2.95.

Mr. Peterson says that his is a seven day a week job. "You have to live with it to have it looking like it does," and his efforts are quickly appreciated. It is also a year-around job. We saw double begonia cuttings that were being rooted for next Christmas, and the incubator table was busy giving the young tomato plants a head start.

In addition to the many plants, there is a large selection of planters and baskets. One flower pot is made of clear plastic which would enable you to watch the roots grow and see the inner workings of your favorite plant, 59 cents to $1.29.

There are also cache-pots, and one of the big items for this year is a white plastic basket weave that looks like the expensive ceramic ones, $1.15 to $5.50. Another interesting planter is made of tree bark and would be very much in tune with nature in an outdoor setting, $2.95 and up.

We also saw many redwood and stoneware planters, wicker baskets for flowers or fruit, and terrariums.

During the summer months Peterson's will have fresh vegetables daily, but if you can't wait, at the moment they carry a delicious green house New Jersey vine-ripened tomato.

Located on Route 206 between Princeton and Lawrenceville, the Nursery and Garden Market is open every day of the week from 10 to 8.

QUALITY IS STRESSED At Village Bakery. Every store, some more successfully than others, seeks to maintain high standards in its field, but few are as successful as a small bakery in Lawrenceville.

Very few bakeries can boast an owner with a master craftsman's degree in baking and pastry, and this is just one of the reasons that makes the Village Bakery unsurpassed in its work.

Robert Stuebben lived in Krefeld, Germany, where his parents owned a restaurant, and in training to join them, he became an apprentice at a cafe for three years. In Germany these cafes were large bakeries with an adjoining dining area for coffee and cakes.

However, to earn his degree he had to work an additional seven years, take many courses including accounting, and finally pass an examination. Sadly, after all this preparation, his family's restaurant was bombed during World War II. But Germany's loss was

Discount Coupon Book Offered Here

As the rapid rate of inflation pushes prices upward these days, discounts have become more a way of life than ever before as a means of doing business. The customer benefits from the lower price, and the store benefits from the sale it might not have made otherwise.

Along this line, Astro Publications, Inc., 199 Nassau Street, has put together a coupon book offering savings at a large number of restaurants, stores, amusements, motels, sporting events, travel and even gas stations.

Most of the restaurants will grant anywhere from $2 to a complete complimentary dinner for the price of one meal. Others such as Black Bart's will give 15 percent off the final bill, with dessert, but not drinks included.

Atlantic City Raceway, Freehold Raceway, Dover Downs and the Flemington Speedway among others will grant one free adult admission with the purchase of another ticket. Two can get in to see the Philadelphia 76ers or the Philadelphia Blazers for the price of one. (An easier and cheaper way to see the New York Knicks play.)

Discounts are also available on golf, bowling, billiards, roller skating and sky diving. The Bucks County Playhouse, the Paper Mill Playhouse, and the Mayfair Theatre in Trenton are also included.

On the retail level, stores in this area such as Zinder's, Marty's Schwinn, Alternatives, Robert Joseph Hairhouse, Tile Discount, The Switching Point, Craft Cleaners and Reilley's have discount offers. Craft will give 20 percent off on the cost of cleaning any size rug, while Robert Joseph offers 25 percent off on your first visit, 50 percent if you bring a friend.

The booklet, priced at $.50, is on sale at Hinkson's, Skirm's, Center Stationers, Reilley's, Aljon's and other stores. Edward A. Salkind, president, welcomes inquiries from clubs or organizations interested in selling it on a commission basis.

Lawrenceville's gain, and it became home for this marvelous pastry chef.

Mr. and Mrs. Stuebben both feel that their work is much more than a job, and they are more concerned with their place in life and the community. They take a great deal of pride in their work and strive for the high standards they value.

4 a.m. Start. A typical day at the bakery begins about 4 a.m. when the doughs are made. Some bakers do their work the previous evening, but the Stuebbens feel that then the goods are already 8 or 10 hours old before the first customer arrives. When the shop opens at 7, the first items are often still warm, perfect for breakfast.

The baking goes on until at least 2 and sometimes on a busy day until 5. They begin with items needing the hottest oven, such as the morning buns, and then work down to the lower temperature baked goods. Because everything is so freshly baked, the Stuebbens use no preservatives which they feel give a slight bitter taste.

In the store you will see morning buns, breads, coffee cakes, cookies, eclairs, pies and cakes, but all this is only a part of the Stuebben's work. They also do a large custom business and one of the most popular items is a party cake, decorated by Mr. Stuebben with any theme you wish.

We saw one with a bowler throwing his ball down a long alley and another with a handsome horse grazing in a pasture. Both cakes were decorated with an artist's touch and yet are only two of well over a hundred made each week.

Torte Bizets. Many of the custom items, such as the Torte Bizet, go back to Mr. Stuebben's days in Germany. Each year there would be a fair at which all the cafes would enter a favorite pastry.

Mr. Stuebben's cafe featured this torte, which contains, layers of chocolate cake and meringue filled with whipped cream. The bakery also makes another delicious German item —the Black Forest cake which is a chocolate cake with cherries and a rum custard.

Within reason, the Stuebbens will attempt to bake anything you want. They had just recently made a fruit Babka for a Russian Easter party, and while we were there they agreed to try to duplicate a sweet dough a customer had found in Massachusetts.

Each week they have a feature and try to introduce a new item to their customers. When we were there they had light and fluffy Lemon Chiffon pies and tarts, the perfect ending to a filling meal.

The shop will also help you in planning a party and it has some marvelous suggestions such as miniature eclairs, cream puffs tarts, and cookies. The area schools often buy their party items here and Mrs. Stuebben is most helpful in providing a nice selection within a limited budget.

A final item worth noting is a plain or a raisin salt-free bread, for those people on a limited diet, made regularly at the bakery.

The Village Bakery, 2 Gordon Avenue, Lawrenceville is open Wednesday to Saturday from 7 until 7, and Sundays from 7 to 4.

An idea

The Idea was to seek out fine quality stores that offered better merchandise at reduced prices. We were fortunate to find exceptional merchants who offered a variety of merchandise.

We then selected a beautifully wooded setting in which to locate this unusual concept. Every store would display their merchandise tastefully in a pleasing and relaxed atmosphere with lots of congenial sales help.

We call it the Marketplace.

Neal W. O'Connor, Princeton-Kingston Road, President of N. W. Ayer & Son since 1965, has been elected Chairman and will continue as Chief Executive Officer.

Robert P. Zabel, a former resident of Princeton, who has has held management positions in Ayer's New York, Philadelphia and Chicago offices and has been Executive Vice President and General Manager of Ayer Chicago for the last four years, has been elected President.

Mr. O'Connor, a native of Milwaukee, Wis., and a 1949 graduate of Syracuse University, joined Ayer directly from college and worked his way up through the production and marketing departments into account management. He became an Account Executive in 1955, an Account Supervisor in 1959 and was elected a vice-president of Ayer in December, 1960.

Two years later he was appointed Manager of New York Account Service, where he served until elected President April 9, 1965. He has been Ayer's Chief Executive Officer since June, 1966.

Susan Hughes, a sophomore at Bates College, Lewiston, Maine, is one of 32 students participating in a six week work study course in religion in East Harlem, N.Y. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred A. Hughes, Carter Rd.

The purpose of the experience is to supply the student with a course in religion and at the same time let him apply his knowledge through actual work experience. While in New York, the students will work closely with representatives of churches and other East Harlem organizations in order to learn their ways of coping with problems of the city.

Denison University sophomore Joe Bolster continues to improve as a middle and long distance runner. His best time of 1:16.6 in the 600-yard run has placed him among the top five runners in Denison history in that event. He was also a member of the record-setting mile relay team.

Bolster played JV basketball his year and was a member of the cross country team which won the Ohio Athletic Conference championship. Bolster, cross country captain-elect for the 1973 season, is he son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph L. Bolster Jr., 124 Parkside Drive.

Dr. George K. Horton, 33 Philip Drive, a professor of physics at Rutgers College, has been elected to the Council of the American Association of University Professors (AAUP).

Dr. Horton will serve a three-year term and with 39 other professors from colleges throughout the nation will determine policies and programs for the association's 85,000 members.

A past president of the Rutgers AAUP chapter, he joined the University in 1960 as professor of physics at Douglass College, the women's division of the State University, and transferred to Rutgers College in 1961.

Stack Associates announces the appointment of Albert S. Wilson, Jr., Princeton-Lawrenceville Road, to the post of Vice President. In this capacity, he will work closely with J. William Stack, Jr., president of the executive search organization, specializing in selection at senior management levels.

Before joining Stack Associates, Mr. Wilson was president of Aberfoyle Manufacturing Company, a multi-plant, national textile spinning and processing company.

After a profitable merger in 1967 with Rolfite Company and Alco Chemical Corporation, he held the Textile Division presidency until successfully launching the $600 million conglomerate on the New York Stock Exchange in June 1969. He then moved up to the post of Corporate Development Advisor.

Mr. Wilson, a Chemical Engineering graduate of Yale University, with service as a Lieutenant Commander in the U. S. Navy, also studied Mechanical Engineering at Lehigh University.

You dial local calls yourself, right?
So why not long distance calls?
It's just as easy. And dialing saves you money.
You always save when you dial direct, without the services of an operator.* Because the rates are always lower than for calls which require an operator, such as credit card, collect, third number billed, person-to-person, and coin-phone calls to other states.
It makes sense, then, to dial all your calls direct.
On calls to other states from your home or business phone, simply dial the three-digit area code for the place you're calling, then dial the phone number. If you don't know the area code, you'll find help in the front pages of your phone book.
Don't know the phone number? You can get it at no extra charge from Directory Assistance in the place you're calling. Just dial the area code plus 555-1212. Then jot the number down for future use.
What if you should reach a wrong number? No Problem. Hang up, dial the operator and tell us about the mistake. We'll make sure the call isn't on your phone bill.
New Jersey Bell
*Direct dialing rates also apply to all calls made from areas where direct dialing facilities are not available.

SPORTS FANS!

I BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW

Brought to you
By John Bernard

Here's one of those sports oddities that's hard to believe—but it's true. The horse that won the Kentucky Derby of 1933, Broker's Tip, strangely enough, had never won a race previous to the Derby, and never won a race after that!

Ever wonder why the Kentucky Derby is called a "Derby"? Well, in 1780 in England, the Earl of Derby founded a famous horse race for 3-year-olds at Epsom and it was called "Derby's Race at Epsom." Later, it became, simply, the Epsom Derby, and when the folks in Louisville started their race in 1875, they borrowed the name and called it the Kentucky Derby.

Here's an oddity about horse racing you may not have known . . . Did you know that every thoroughbred race horse in the world must be able to trace its pedigree straight back to one of just 3 horses. Every thoroughbred that races anywhere today is descended directly from either Byerly Turk, Darley Arabian or Godolphin Arabian. These 3 horses, from the Middle East, and known for their speed, were bred some 250 years ago to 3 English mares known for durability—and that was the start of the breed we know today as the thoroughbred.

I bet you didn't know that we sell trip accident insurance at a very low rate. For example—$50,000 for 10 days costs only $21.70.

11 Contests in 5 Sports Offered This Weekend

The busiest spring sports weekend of the season is on the athletic schedule to coincide with the University's annual houseparties. Interested spectators can choose among three baseball games, two tennis matches, a lacrosse game, two track meets, and a regatta in which four crews are entered.

Friday will find Yale's tennis team on the University Courts for a match starting at 3 and the Eli baseball team at Clarke Field for a game at 3:30. Brown will bring its tennis team here Saturday at 2, with the Bruins also here for a baseball doubleheader starting at 1.

Yale's varsity and B track teams will face Princeton in Palmer Stadium Saturday at 2, with Harvard-Princeton lacrosse action starting at the same hour. The Carnegie Cup regatta will begin on the lake at 3:30 when the freshmen row, junior varsity and varsity shells will start at 3:45 and 4 p.m.

Cornell is the favorite, with Yale and Princeton both encountering manpower problems. An added starter is Kansas State, about which little is known along the eastern seaboard, including the exact identity of the body of water which the midwesterners have located in their arid state big enough to permit a rowing program to be launched. They will not be eligible to win the Carnegie Cup, but as Johnny-Come-Latelies, could embarrass Cornell, Princeton or Yale should they finish ahead of any one of them.

The Tigers were last in the Compton Cup Saturday on the Charles River, six lengths behing Harvard and almost three back of M.I.T. While they rarely if ever beat Harvard, it is almost as unusual for them to trail Tech, and Saturday's results are indicative of the troubled status of rowing here.

GOOD FIELD, NO HIT

As Tigers Split a Pair. Errorless ball for 14 innings wasn't good enough to win two games for Princeton's baseball team at Hanover Sunday. The Tigers split the rain postponed twin bill with Dartmouth, thereby missing a major opportunity to gain ground on the rest of the league.

The rain worked against Coach Eddie Donovan's nine in more ways than one. Friday's contest with Harvard at Cambridge was washed out, and so was a potential Princeton triumph at Hanover Saturday. The Tigers were leading, 2-0, in the top of the fourth when a downpour made further action impossible.

Randy Blevins was on the mound and controlling action, despite his usual wildness. The Orange and Black was within six Dartmouth outs of victory, but when rain interfered, the doubleheader was begun anew on Sunday.

After having been able to complete every scheduled game during the first three weeks of the season, the Eastern League saw five postponements last Friday and Saturday. Harvard's diamond near the Charles River was such a quagmire that the Crimson could not play Friday, Saturday or Sunday, losing out on its Friday game with Princeton and the Columbia twin bill Saturday.

SPORTS in Princeton

The Harvard-Columbia doubleheader was reset for Tuesday but no date has been selected for Princeton's return to Cambridge. New dates must also be found for Penn vs. Brown at Providence and Navy vs. Yale at New Haven, although the latter will not be played if it has no bearing on the outcome of the race.

Harvard and Penn, are, however, very much in the thick of the going. The season ends a week from Saturday, with the league champion qualifying automatically for a playoff berth in District I, the New England states.

Coppedge Wins Shut Out

With Blevins out of action Sunday because he had pitched the previous day, Bill Coppedge worked the opener at Hanover Sunday. Somehow managing to stand a dozen runners in the seven-inning affair, he blanked the Green, 1 to 0.

The only run Coppedge needed came in the top of the first. Cullinane walked to lead off, stole second—as usual—and scored on Ken Beytin's double over the left fielder's head.

Princeton managed only four hits in all, while Dartmouth produced ten, got three walks and still could not advance more than one runner to third, let alone manufacture a run. Good infield play, particularly by reserve infielder Larry Rosenblatt at third, kept the home team in check. Steve Loy, the regular third baseman, moved to short when Steve Brown was called home from Cambridge by a death in the family.

The Tigers lost the nightcap because Dartmouth pushed across four runs with the aid of only one hit — a single.

The first two rounded the bases on a pair of walks, two passed balls, a wild pitch and a fielder's choice.

The Green's final two-run cluster was achieved on two more walks, a hit and a wild pitch. Sophomore Scott McHenry yielded only four hits in all, but continued to have control trouble. It was a 4-2 final. Rick Hoberg's double to left accounting for both Princeton runs.

LACROSSE TEAM AT .500

After Dividing Ivy Games. A 15-to-8 loss at the hands of Pennsylvania and a 7-5 triumph over Dartmouth kept Princeton's lacrosse team at the break-even point. Going into Wednesday's contest with a rugged Army squad at West Point, the Tigers were 2-2 in league action and 6-6 overall. Harvard, weaker than usual in the sport, will be here Saturday for a 2 o'clock contest on Finney Field. Tuesday night, a rare contest under lights will be played on Frelinghuysen Field (at the open end of Palmer Stadium) against Rutgers. The Scarlet has a solid team this spring, and will be favored over the rebuilding Tigers.

In Ivy action, Brown is now tht only unbeaten entry, following a melodrama at Ithaca that resulted in Penn's first loss. The Quakers were upset by Cornell, 8 to 7, in the fifth overtime period—a fabulous battle that is paralleled only in Ivy records by a Yale-Princeton basketball game which also went into five extra periods in 1956.

The Orange and Black hung on for better than three periods against Penn at Philadelphia, trailing by only 6-4 at the half and by no more than 10-8 with five minutes to go. The Tigers have, however, had fourth-quarter problems this spring, and five Quaker goals in the closing minutes turned the game into a rout. Dartmouth got the first goal here Saturday but sophomore Bill Chaires matched that shortly and Princeton went on to control the Green without ever being able to break the contest open. The victors were credited with a 65-31 margin in shots but only seven beat the Green's goalie.

Chaires finished the day with three and now leads the Ivy League's individual race with16. Jon Peltit also got one for the Tigers.

PHS BOWS TO HUN

As Pitching Disintegrates. Princeton High School, which has won only one baseball game this season, took on rival Hun School, which had lost only one, Monday afternoon and went down to its sixth defeat when it was unable to hold a 5-3 laed going in to the last inning.

A two-run single by Scott Johnson, and a two-run triple by Greg Rafalski sandwiched around two wild pitches, each scoring a run, added up to six Hun runs and a 9-5 win. Bobby King, who was brilliant both on the mound and with the bat for PHS in the early going, was charged with the loss.

Earlier in the week, PHS had been hammered, 10-4 by Hamilton.

Ahead lie a pair of rematches with St. Anthony and Steinert, both of which have scored identical 5-0 victories over PHS this season. The Little Tigers will be at St. Anthony's Friday and will play host to Steinert on Tuesday at 3:45.

PHS Opens Fast. Against Hun, PHS took a 3-0 lead in the second on four hits. "All clean shots," said PHS coach Don Blankenbush. Following a walk to Steve Kopp, John Mooney doubled and King sent both home with a single. Mike Carlucci and Greg Kline then added successive singles for the third run in the inning.

King, meanwhile, was mowing down Hun batters with a devastating fastball. He struck out five in the first two innings.

In the third, singles by Kopp and Mooney and a walk to Freddie Wilson, pinch-hitting for Wray Blattner, jammed the bases.

Steve Howell, batting for George Reynolds fanned, but King drove in his third and fourth runs with a single over second. It was Princeton seventh hit off starter Paul Creamer, the mound ace for Hun who started the game with a 6-0 record. "No team," commented Hun coach Bill McQuade, "had hit Creamer as hard this season."

Too Much Bad Baseball. It was, however, to be the high water mark, for PHS. What followed was a melange of walks, hit batsmen, wild pitches and passed balls. King, who had been so effective, became wild and finally, wholly ineffective.

With two down in the third, Hun loaded them up when Dave Pone walked, Greg Rafalski singled off Wray Blattner's glove at third and Dave Clark was hit by a pitch. Bob McHugh walked on five pitches to force in Hun's first run.

King then uncorked a wild pitch. Catcher Jeff Drummond recovered and threw to King covering home in plenty of time. But in his eagerness to make the tag, King dropped the ball and Rafalski came across with the second run. Next, Lonnie Cathel walked, the third free pass issued in the inning by King, to load them up again. Creamer became King's seventh strikeout victim but not before Clark scored on a passed ball for Hun's third run.

King continued to struggle in the fourth. He started by walking Johnson and Biff Hollowell, his sixth and seventh free pass. He also hit Tony Traini but some fine defensive plays by Drummond, Blattner and Carlucci, and King's eighth strikeout bailed him out.

Mooney Close to .500. Singles by Mooney and Blattner in the fifth were wasted when Reynolds grounded into a double play. Mooney's single was his third hit in the game and he leads the team in batting, hitting just under .500. John Videbeck pitched the inning in relief of Creamer.

Because of a 5:45 meal curfew adherred to by Hun, the fifth inning was the last. After King got Clark to ground out to first base he was two outs away from his first win. But again he was wild. He walked McHugh, hit Cathel with a pitch and walked pinch hitter Kevin Rafaski—his ninth—to put Hun runners at each base. Blankenbush strolled for the third time. In came Bob Zinsmeister in relief. It was his first pitching assignment of the season.

After working the count to 3-2, Johnson rifled a shot off Reynolds' glove to score the tying runs. A wild pitch to Biff Hollwell scored the winning run. Blankenbush then had the option of conceding right there or completing the inning. He chose the latter.

Another wild pitch to Tony Trani sent home another run. After Dave Pone became the tenth Hun player to walk, Rafalski lined a triple deep to left center to score both.

"When King started to lose control and we got some base runners, that opened the game up for us," said McQuade. "When we got a couple of nice hits, I knew something like this might happen.

"They have a nice team and are a lot better than their record indicates. We couldn't touch King at first but we were told that once he gets in trouble, he loses his control."

King followed that script exactly. He lost his second against no wins. Videbeck, in relief, won his first.

Hamilton Wins. Earlier, PHS was limited to six hits by Hamilton sophomore Bill Potter, losing 16-4 to the visiting Hornets.

Hamilton banged out five extra base hits and took advantage of six PHS errors to run up the score. Mooney and Kopp each had two hits for the losers while Zinsmeister and Galle had one each.

Galle (0-2) was charged with the loss.

TRACK MEET PLANNED

To Honor Matty Geis, A track meet in memory of Matty Geis, who was for many years Princeton University's coach in the sport, will be held Saturday, May 12, in Palmer Stadium. Entries from interested participants may be filed at the YMCA through next Tuesday.

The meet, under direction of the YMCA, will provide competition for the entire family. Events in many distances and jumps will start shortly after 9. Heats will be run in the morning with finals and all adult events tentatively scheduled for the afternoon.

Entry blanks and a list of all events for the various age groups are also available at Princeton area schools. Medals for the first through third places and ribbons up to eighth place will be awarded.

Contestants may enter two events, with an entry fee of 75c for the first event and 50c for the second. Participants will not be allowed to wear spiked shoes.

The YMCA needs more volunteers and those interested should contact Bruce Roper or Phil Krummel at the YMCA physical education office, 924-4825.

HUN WINS TWO MORE

Farragut Here Friday. The streaking Hun baseball team won a pair of games last week to run its record to 7-1. The Red and Black took advantage of some wildness on the part of the Princeton High School pitcher Bobby King to carve out a 9-5 win Monday against the visiting Little Tigers and earlier swamped Perkiomen, 16-2.

There have been some changes in the Hun schedule. Friday, instead of scheduled Pingry, Hun will play host to Admiral Farragut. Starting time is 3:45. Wednesday it will entertain Pennington School at 2:30.

The Pingry game will be rescheduled later. Saturday's game with Lawrenceville, which was rained out, has been reset for May 14 at Lawrenceville.

An account of the Hun PHS game appears elsewhere in Sports in Princeton.

Last week, Hun's Paul Creamer ran his record to an impressive 6-0 when he set Perkiomen down with one hit. He struck out eight. Hun left the field with six wins in seven starts and Creamer owns all six.

Hun pounded Perkiomen (0-3) with 13 hits including a home run and triple by catcher Greg Rafalski. Hun scored one in the first, five in the second, three in the third and seven in the fourth. Visiting Perkiomen scored both its runs in the final inning.

HUNTERDON NEXT

For PHS in Lacrosse. A newcomer to the schedule, Hunterdon Central, will provide the opposition Friday for the Princeton High School lacrosse team. Game time is 3:30 at the PHS field.

Wednesday, coach Marvin Trotman's squad will be in Hightstown for a game with Peddie. This Wednesday at 3:30 it was scheduled to resume play against Hun School.

RANCOCAS VALEY NEXT

For PHS Girls Track Team. Friday afternoon at 3:45, the Princeton High School girls track team will face one of the toughest opponents on its schedule when it plays host to

Boneparth Is Named Football Coach at PDS

John Boneparth, who has spent two years helping Coach George Conway rebuild Princeton Day School's football program, has the top job all to himself now. Boneparth has been named Head Football Coach by Headmaster Douglas D. McClure.

Conway, who took the job while a student at Princeton Theological Seminary and went from 1-6 his first season to 4-3 in his second, has resigned to become chaplain and a teacher at Hotchkiss School, Lakeville, Conn.

Boneparth, who at 25 has four years of coaching under his belt, takes over a growing program. When Conway arrived on the scene just 22 boys came out for football. Boneparth's first spring meeting last week drew 40 candidates, the greatest number ever.

George Conway built a tremendous enthusiasm for football in his two years as head coach," says Boneparth. "Now, from the point of view of interest and enthusiasm, football at PDS has arrived.

"And I'm anticipating an increase in that enthusiasm," he continues, "hoping it will carry all through the season, and that we'll improve on that 4-3 record."

Played with Calvin Hill. Coach Boneparth captained his prep school team at Riverdale Country School two years in a row. His teammate for three years at Riverdale was Calvin Hill, Yale and Dallas Cowboy star.

"Calvin did all the running," says Boneparth. "I played up front, going both ways at guard, tackle, tight end and linebacker."

In addition to his two years as an assistant at PDS, Boneparth coached for two years at Chestnut Hill Academy near Philadelphia. He played college ball as a linebacker at Penn. Now one of his new assistants at PDS will be Bob Hoffman, for the last three seasons a Penn halfback. Hoffman is joining the PDS faculty as a math teacher.

The other assistant will be Chuck Simpson, whose primary responsibility will be the ninth and tenth grade Cub squad.

"I haven't decided on an offense yet," says Boneparth. "Coach Conway used the Power T", but I'm looking at a lot of basic formations and I'll decide on one on the basis of my personnel."

The success of Conway's building efforts is indicated by the fact that 16 lettermen will return to the PDS gridiron next fall, including Capt. Tim Hamfd, all-county end selection John Boyd, and senior lineman Bill Brown. When Conway took over two years ago, there were only three lettermen on the 22-man squad.

If Boneparth wants to improve on last year's 4-3 record, the schedule seems to be in his favor. Two pre-season scrimmages and the first four games will be played in front of home crowds. The Panthers open against Germantown Friends, then play Trinity School (N.Y.), Morristown - Beard and St. Bernard's, before they hit the road for three straight against Wardlaw, MacArthur Military and Croydon Hall.

visiting Rancocas Valley. Tuesday, coach Lamont Fletcher's squad will be at New Brunswick.

The girls remained unbeaten with a 3-0 record when Mater Dei, last week's scheduled opponent, cancelled out. Coach Fletcher reported that it marked the second year in a row that Mater Dei has cancelled its meet with PHS. A lack of team members was the reason given both years, Fletcher said.

2 EASY WINS RECORDED

By PDS Lacrosse Team. A pair of lopsided wins last week gives the Princeton Day School lacrosse team a four - game win streak and a 5-1 overall record going into a scheduled Wednesday game against Hunterdon Central High School.

The Panther stickmen took Rutgers Prep 14-5 Wednesday, then added an 11-1 victory over Montville High School in Friday's rain.

PDS romped to an 8-1 lead at the end of the first quarter in New Brunswick, and led 11-1 at the half. Coach Chuck Simpson fielded his freshmen and put middie John Bragg in the goal for the second half, and the youngsters played a 4-4 tie for the last 20 minutes.

It was equally one - sided Friday. Rain and mud tend to equalize things, but not so against the visitors from North Jersey who never had a chance.

It should be a different story against Hunterdon Central, now ranked third among state "A" high schools in a game scheduled to be played this Wednesday afternoon. PDS plays again Friday taking on the Pingry School "B's" at Elizabeth.

DILLON POOL SITE

Of First "Masters" Meet. Masters swimming, a new pastime for "youngsters" over 25, will come to Princeton this weekend when the East Coast Masters Invitational, the first such meet in Princeton, will be held Friday evening and Saturday at Dillon Pool.

Swimmers in five age groups will compete in distances ranging from 50 to 1650 yards. Top age-group swimmers in the east will vie in the meet, which is officially sanctioned by the New Jersey AAU. Among those competing will be former Olympic swimmers Buster Crabbe, Burwell Jones and Tammy Murphy.

Host for the invitational is the Princeton Aquatic Association Masters. Bill Farley, coach of Princeton University's squad of Eastern champions, heads the program, assisted by Cathy Corcione and Jane Fremon, two outstanding swimmers for the University's women's team.

EIGHT SURVIVE

In Springdale Tournament

The quarter-final round will be played Saturday in the President's Cup tournament at Springdale Golf Club. Winners will meet Sunday, with the championship to be played the following weekend.

In the quarterfinals, Maurice Coffee will face Hal Moran, Jack Mudge will play Ralph Allaire, Dan Hall will oppose Bob Forrey and Kline Farmer is paired against Lyle Fitch. All matches will be 18 holes, with players using full handicaps.

In play last weekend, Coffee defeated Joe Masick, 3 and 2, and Kester Pierson, 5 and 4, after Pierson had eliminated Bob Shillaber, 3 and 1. Moran defeated both Ed Johnson and Jack Petrone 2 and 1, with Petrone a 5 and 4 victor over Bob Goethals.

Mudge won from Jack Sweeney, 1 up, and from Norm Schuele, Jr., 4 and 2, after Schuele had eliminated Oliver Houghton, 3 and 1. Allaire trimmed Charles Bardwell on the fourth extra hole Saturday and then ousted Asa Farr, 5 include several veterans with meet experience this year. Dave Benbassatt (25-29), former MIT distance swimmer, has placed in several events and will be competing in his specialties, the 200 and 500 yard freestyle events. Tink Bolster, (40-44), a graduate of South College, has dominated her age group in practically every event she has entered, and was ranked nationally in 1972 in the 200, 500, and 1650 yard freestyles. Ed Breisacher (40-44), former captain ('54) of the Princeton University Swimming Team, has taken firsts in the 50, 100, and 200 yard freestyle, as well as the 200 yard individual medley, and hopes to add the breaststroke to his repertoire.

John Ferguson, (35-39), class of '56 at Yale, has placed in both breaststroke and freestyle. Becky Houston (40-44), has won her freestyle events in competition. John Kurmbach (25-29) another former captain ('66) of the Princeton Swimming Team, has placed in both butterfly and freestyle events. Kay Lasley (45-49) teaches Beginner Women Swimming at the Y", and has won her backstroke event. Mike Mahoney (30-34), a swimmer and diver for Harvard in the 1950s, and now Professor of History at Princeton, has won or placed in the individual, freestyle, and butterfly events.

Jim Pendergrass (50-54), a Cornell graduate and retired Navy captain, is a strong competitor who has won butterfly and breaststroke events, and has placed in the freestyle. John Stone (40-44), former Princeton University swimmer ('53) who held the university records in the 50 and 100 yard freestyle during the 1950s, has won all his events in the 50, 100 and 200 yard freestyle, and is ranked in the top ten nationally in the 50 yard freestyle. Sandy Thatcher (25-29), former Princeton University individual medley swimmer and author of a swimming history of Princeton, has placed in a number of events, taking advantage of his all around versatility.

Competing for the first time for the Princeton Masters will be: James Doig (35-39), a Professor of Politics at Princeton, and Mark Grossman (25-29), a graduate of MIT.

FIGURES SHOW DROP

In First Quarter Index. Reflecting the usual seasonal pattern, the figures in the TOWN TOPICS business index for the first quarter of 1973 have fallen off from the levels achieved in the fourth quarter of 1972.

Compared with the first quarter a year ago, however, the latest figures are able to generate more plus signs.

Savings are up 18 percent over last year, checking accounts, 5 percent, and loans 24 percent, continuing a period of virtually uninterrupted growth for the town's financial institutions.

Savings and loans also advanced from last quarter, but checking accounts are down, following a pattern that has rarely changed. Checking accounts always show a drop in this quarter after the payment of Christmas bills and income tax.

Postal receipts and parking meter receipts likewise show a decrease from the pre-Christmas activity, dropping 4 and 2 percent respectively. Both show healthy increases over last year.

Construction activity around town also dropping during the winter months. Only one new house was started in the Borough, where open lots are scarce, and only five in the Township. Building permits & their value also fell in both municipalities.

Property transfers rose slightly in the Borough and dropped slightly in the Township, while telephones in service maintained a gradual increase.

CHARTER IS GRANTED

To West Windsor Bank. The incorporators of the new West Windsor State Bank were recently granted a charter by the New Jersey Department of Banking.

The Bank's principal offices will be located on the Princeton - Hightstown Road, (Route 571), in Princeton Junction.

The various committees of the Bank are composed of the Directors pursuing the various phases necessary for the opening. They anticipate having a banking mobile module in operation in the near future. This will be in use while the bank is under construction.

The Directors, Donald Perrine, Michael Greschak, Wallace McLean, Charles Rue, Jr., Malcolm Roszel, John Hodden, C. Bergen Groendyke, John Ellsworth and Lewis Coleman are pleased with the area resident involvement in the stock split - off. Thirty per cent of the Bank's stock was subscribed to by local residents and businessmen.

The Directors are in the process of screening candidates for the Bank's presidency and other positions.

LOSS REPORTED

By Applied Research. Princeton Applied Research Corporation has reported a loss for the first quarter of 1973 of $82,408 or $0.08 per share on sales of $1,273,000. Corresponding operating results for the same period last year were sales of $1,267,000 and net income before extraordinary items of $15,000 or $0.02 per share.

Although new order bookings during the first quarter were substantially below expectations, the company reported that in recent weeks the rate of new order bookings had increased to a level more consistent with its current operating budgets. Domestic business was about 10% higher than for the same period last year, but foreign business was down substantially, particularly from areas in Europe where recent changes in sales distributors were effected.

The company reported that the loss for the quarter was primarily due to lower than anticipated order volume and operating expenses. $263,000 higher than for the same period last year. Such increased operating costs were related to start up expenses associated with the formation of a branch sales office in France and continuing research and development expenditures, within the company's subsidiary, Princeton Metal Systems Corporation.

EARNINGS UP SHARPLY

At Princeton Electronic Products. Sales and earnings of Princeton Electronic Products, Inc. (OTC) were up sharply for the first nine months ended February 28.

Revenues for the nine months ended February 28, were $1,405,673 compared with revenues of $869,518 for the period ended February 29, 1972 and profit for the current period totaled $55,244 compared with a loss of $82,915 for the prior year according to Dr. Steven R. Hofstein, President.

He attributed the results to increased demands for the company's silicon storage tube unit used by manufacturers of x-ray baggage inspection equipment; to expanding deliveries of its 801 graphic data terminal, and to a rise in international business.

"Since we began shipments four years ago, our revenues have increased each year and this year is a continuation of that growth. We presently have the largest backlog in our history". Dr. Hofstein also predicted an increase in sales.

"Using the technology of our luggage and package X-ray inspection equipment, we are expanding our medical electronics line with the development of a new X-Ray Image Storage System to be used in fluoroscopy. This unit makes it possible for surgeons to observe the patient during catheter insertion; GI studies, and other surgical work with a significant reduction in x-ray exposure for the patient."

COMPANY ACQUIRED

By Sedgwick Printout. Sedgwick Printout Systems, Route One, has purchased the assets and customer base of American Computergraphics Corp. (ACG), a Philadelphia based subsidiary of FIMACO, Inc.

The agreement enables SPS to expand its customer base and acquire valuable software, while ACG has become part of an organization totally committed to computerized typesetting, according to Charles Melmed, SPS president. The acquisition was consummated on a cash basis.

Harry Miranda, former President of ACG, has been elected Vice President, Sales, for SPS. ACG computer personnel have accepted positions at SPS, and are now located here.

DIRECTOR IS NAMED

By N. J. National Bank. Vincent E. Hoyer, Harbourton-Woodsville Road, Harbourton, has been elected to serve on the board of directors of New Jersey National Corporation and New Jersey National Bank. He is president and a director of New Jersey Manufacturers Insurance Company.

Mr. Hoyer joined New Jersey Manufacturers Insurance Company in 1948, and was elected assistant treasurer in 1956. He was appointed vice president in 1965, and has served as president since 1966. He served with the U. S. Air Force from 1943 to 1945, and was graduated from Rider College with a B.S. degree in 1948.

Vincent E. Hoyer

NEW COMPANY PLANNED

By United Jersey Banks. United Jersey Banks has announced that it will file an application with the Federal Reserve Board to form a leasing company which it hopes to have in operation by mid-year. To be known as "United Jersey Leasing Company," the new bank related subsidiary will lease personal property and equipment to businesses on a long-term self-liquidating basis.

If approved the leasing company will have its offices in Princeton, but its services will be available at all of UJB's 15 member banks, of which First National Bank is one. United Jersey Leasing Company would be UJB's third bank-related subsidiary. UJB formed United Jersey Mortgage Company in late 1971 and acquired Gibraltar Corporation of America, a commercial finance company in 1972.

PROMOTIONS ANNOUNCED

At Princeton Bank and Trust. William R. Cosby, Chairman of the Board of the Princeton Bank and Trust Company, has announced several promotions of key personnel aimed at improved service to the public.

Samuel K. Hunt, Vice-President, who has been Manager of the Pennytown office of the Princeton Bank in Hopewell Township, moves to Hopewell Borough, where he will be in charge of the bank's business in both Hopewell Borough and Township. Mr. Hunt has been with the bank for many years. Succeeding him as Manager of the Pennytown office is James Quinn, a native of Hopewell, who has been with the organization for several years.

Bill Kight to Leave Princeton for Post with New York City Church

After eight years minister ng to young people in coffee houses streets and jails of Princeton and Trenton, the Rev William Kight is moving back toward the established church

Rev Kight, who became in volved in youth work almost as soon as he arrived in Princeton in 1965, and who was appointed street minister following his graduation from the Princeton Theological Seminary in 1970, has resigned, effective May 15. He has accepted an offer as director of youth ministry at Riverside Church in New York He begins his new work May 20

For the 29-year old Rev Kight, the move is a logical nex step to his work in Princeton. "Riverside Church is a fashionable church, largely supported by Rockefeller money, which is now attempting to reach out to its own community," said Rev Kight. "It's located on Riverside Drive and 122nd Street, and the kids I will be working with are mostly from that neighborhood — 90 percent black and 10 percent white."

"I won't be doing street ministry, as I did in Princeton," he said. "But these kids are street people so there is bound to be a spill-over in that direction."

In his new position, Rev Kight will coordinate church educational and fellowship programs, for young people from seventh to 12th grades. "They have an enormous athletic program," he said, "but there is very little relation of that to the rest of the church."

Program in Limbo. Rev Kight had visited the New York church several times this spring as a consultant to the youth program. "They had tried several approaches in the last six years," he said. "The program was in limbo, and the church wanted to know what it could do for both the black and the white kids simultaneously."

The Princeton minister told his New York brethern that "you are out of your minds. No one program will guarantee a 100 percent black-white encounter. All the church can do is provide an arena — a wide spectrum of activities — and hope the kids will come together at various points."

Riverside liked what it heard from Rev. Kight. Also, the Rev. Ernest T. Campbell, senior minister of the 4,000 member church, had been minister of the First Presbyterian Church in Ann Arbor, Mich., at the time Kight was an undergraduate student in social services at the University of Michigan. Rev. Campbell was also a graduate and an alumni trustee of the Princeton seminary.

"He wouldn't take no for an answer when I told him I didn't want to go to Princeton," said Rev. Kight, who was a member of Rev. Campbell's Ann Arbor congregation

Riverside is an inter-denominational church, comprised of the United Church of Christ and the American Baptist Church.

Banged on the Head. Princeton's street minister was offered the position at Riverside on April 11. "I then did what any minister would do. For two days I prayed," said Rev. Kight. "I told the Lord that He was dealing with an idiot, and that He would have to bang me on the head to make me understand what He thought would be best for me to do.

"That in a sense is what He did," the minister said, "because I got an overwhelming feeling that I should move back in the direction of a parish. But of course there's never a good time to leave the kind of work I was doing in Princeton."

Rev. Kight's down-to earth theological tone, and his blunt talk with adults and youngsters alike, were two of the qualities that attracted young people — especially those in trouble — to him.

"Most of these kids have no sense of direction," he said. "They don't know what is expected of them. Society and the schools keep forcing them to make decisions on their own and be self-motivated."

Hard Line on Drugs. The young people who dropped in at Rev. Kight's second floor office in St Andrew's Presbyterian Church, or who called him on the phone, or ran into him on the street, soon learned what the minister expected of them.

"Some of them will always try to play games with you, and if you let them they will run all over you. The kids coming by soon learned they had better be clean around me, or I'd take their dope and shove it down their throats," he said

Despite the tough talk, or as Rev. Kight believes, because of the tough talk, kids kept coming by. The number from Trenton soon grew to 200 "The black kids in Princeton have an especially good information network. The word soread quickly," he said.

Rev. Kight is still haunted by one incident in which he feels he might have taken an even tougher stance.

Nickel-Plated .32. The minister was visiting a 16-year-old being held at the County Youth House. The boy asked to go to the bathroom and returned with a nickel-plated .32 calibre pistol. He then locked Rev Kight and two guards in a cell.

"The kid asked me if I was going to try to take the gun away," said Rev. Kight. "I told him no." The youth escaped, only to be shot to death later in the night by Hamilton Township Police.

"It was a sad and frightening event," said the street minister. "I just don't know what would have happened if I had tried to get that gun from him."

The Princeton Presbyterian Commission, the group of three Presbyterian churches in town that underwrote Rev. Kight's street ministry, has voted to continue his work. The commission will meet with Rev Kight to review the program and consider possible changes in its scope.

Obituaries

Jacques Maritain, 90, philosopher and author, and professor at Princeton University during World War II and also from 1948 to 1952, died April 28 in Toulouse, France.

He produced 55 written works in his lifetime, from philosophical dissertations on the meaning of life and the search for God to personal reflections on life in the United States.

Maritain came to Princeton in October, 1940, after fleeing Paris with Charles DeGaulle when that city was occupied by the Nazis. He became a visiting professor at both Princeton and Columbia.

In 1945 he participated in Princeton's bicentennial celebration, and was awarded an honorary Doctor of Letters degree. He rejoined the faculty in 1948, again as visiting professor of philosophy, and retired in 1952, with the title of professor emeritus.

Then Prof. Maritain returned to France, and was appointed French ambassador to the Vatican. While serving in Rome he began a lifelong friendship with Monsignor Giovanni Montini, now Pope Paul VI.

After the death of his wife two years ago, Maritain retreated to the Toulouse Monastery of the Little Brother of Jesus.

A requiem mass was sung in Toulouse. Burial was in the village of Kobsheim in eastern France, where he had spent his childhood.

Philip R. Cheeseman, 50, of 236 Cold Soil road, Princeton Township, died April 29 in Princeton Medical Center. He was an electrial engineer at the Forrestal Research Center.

Born in England, he had spent most of his life in this area. He served in the Air Force during World War II, and was a graduate of the Institute of Engineers and a member of the C.B.L. Association.

Survivors include his wife, Marie McCoy Cheeseman; three daughters, Susan, Pamela and Jennifer, and a son, Goeffrey, all living at home; three borthers, David of Groveville, Ronald of Yardville, and Robert of St. Petersburg, Fla.; two sisters, Mrs. Patricia Imbroglia of Trenton, and Mrs. John Nagy of Chesterfield; and his mother, Mrs. Horine A. Cheesman of Groveville.

The Princeton Unitarian Church was the site of a memorial service. Donations may be sent to the Princeton Medical Center nursing staff.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Princeton Medical Center for the benefit of the nursing staff.

Mrs. Louise Hannam Pratt, died April 24 at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Edward G. Green, 45 Cleveland Lane. Mrs. Pratt was the widow of Henry E. Pratt, former state attorney for Peoria County, Illinois.

and 4. Farr took his first round match from Dick Liebler, 3 and 1.

Hall defeated Don Bordelmay, 1 up, and Jim Laughlin, 2 and 1, after Laughlin had been a 2-and-1 victor over Tom James. Forrey won over Robert Lewis and then by 2 up over Bill Paine. The latter was a first-round winner over Karl Pettit, 2 and 1.

Fitch advanced to the second round by default after winning from Dean Chace, 1 up. Bob Middlebush eliminated Stanley Apple before defaulting to Fitch.

Fulmer won both his matches on the 18th green—2 up over Dick Thompson and 1 up over Doug Walmsley. The latter defeated Jack Futerer on the 19th green.

"A NICE ONE TO WIN"

PHS Nine Trips Ewing, 4-2. A steady pitching performance by junior southpaw John Mooney, some timely hitting and a sparkling defensive play by a shortstop Mike Carlucci on the last out of the game were the main ingredients in a 4-2 victory whipped up by the Princeton High School baseball team Tuesday over visiting Ewing.

"We played heads up ball. Mooney pitched his usual fine game for us and we got hits when we needed them. It was a nice one to win," said PHS coach Don Blankenbuch. PHS is 2-4, Ewing 2-4-1.

An error by Carlucci and a triple by Fritz Sickels accounted for a Ewing run in the first. Jeff Galle led off the Little Tiger second with a triple to deep center but he died there when Ewing's Rick Stoneking fanned Steve Kopp and Mooney and got Bobby King to ground out. The home team did tie it, however, in the fifth when Carlucci singled, home pinch hitter Mike Diamond who had gotten on with a bunt single and advanced on George Reynold's grounder to second.

Catcher Bob Zinsmeister then opened the sixth inning for PHS with a single, Princeton's sixth hit off Stoneking, who as a sophomore had an 8-0 record but this spring was 0-2-1 entering the game. Galle walked. Then with the Ewing infielders charging in expecting a bunt, Zinsmeister broke for third. Both runners advanced when a balk was called on Stoneking.

When right fielder Vern Gregory dropped Steve Kopp's fly ball, Zinsmeister scored, Galle going to third, Kopp to second on the error. Mooney, next up and the team's leading hitter, rifled Stoneking's first pitch between third and short to drive in the two more runs.

Ewing fought back Sickels opened Ewing's last chance with a double to left — the fourth hit off Mooney. Mark Bombera singled him home to make it 4-2. Vernon was Mooney's fifth strikeout victim but Barry Wiggs hit a slow roller to third and when Wray Blattner's slow throw to first was high, Ewing had two runners on. For PHS, which had blown a 5-3 lead to Hun the day before in the final inning, the pressure mounted. Alan Gille, pinch hitting, popped to Kopp in foul territory.

But Lance Smith, also pinch-hitting, lashed a shot between third and short. Carlucci ranged deep in the hole, retrieved the ball and fired to Zinsmeister at the plate. Bombera, who thought the ball had gone through, was out by three feet — only the look of surprise on his face was greater than the margin of the final putout.

PHS NETMEN LOSE

To Christian Brothers. In a match delayed midway because of a light rain, the Princeton High School tennis team lost its second match of the season, 3-2, to visiting Christian Brothers, which won its tenth straight without a loss.

The singles matches and doubles were split. Dick Broad, number one player for the Little Tigers, lost his match, 6-3, 3-6, 6-1, but David Loy, number 3 singles won his, 6-4, 3-6, 8-6 after being behind 5-1 in the final set for a rousing comeback.

The PHS freshmen doubles team of Dan Schulman and Dan Arnowic won in three sets, 4-6, 6-1, 6-2 but Randy Thomas and Robbie McDougald lost in straight sets, 6-3, 6-2.

That left the outcome hanging squarely on the last match to finish, the number two singles between Nick Van de Walle of PHS and Rich Fitzsimmons of CB. Van de Walle had won the first set, 6-3; the second was tied 3-3 when it was delayed because of the rain.

"When we stopped he told me he felt real good," commented PHS coach Bill Humes. But when play resumed, Van de Walle apparently had lost something. He dropped the second set 6-4 and the final and deciding one, 6-2. The loss left PHS with a 5-2 record.

PDS NINE WINS TWO

Russo Pitches Well. In 1948 on their way to the National League pennant, the old Boston Braves relied on "Spahn and Sain and two days of rain." In 1973, the Princeton Day baseball team is faring pretty well of late with just Glen Russo and rain.

Russo won his team's first game April 18, 2-1, against Germantown Friends. He had pitched well five days earlier against Pennington Prep, but had to settle for a 1-1 tie, because of a Pennington Prep curfew.

Rain forced a postponement of a game against Wardlaw April 23, so he had a week off before going against Bryn Athyn on April 25. He won that one, also by a 2-1 margin, striking out 13 players in the process, and giving up just three hits, and no earned runs.

The two Panther runs scored on a squeeze bunt laid down by his battery mate Nick Brady. The first man came in from third, and the winning run all the way from second as Brady was thrown out at first.

Another rain postponement April 28 with George School gave Russo plenty of time to rest up for MacArthur Military Academy this past Monday. As things turned out he didn't need much. PDS batters finally found their form for the first time this season and staked Russo to a 13-run lead in the first three innings.

He retired the first nine men he faced, fanning five, and coach Tom DeVito, unsure about when it might rain again, took Russo out to save him for a scheduled Wednesday contest with Friends Central.

Terry Ward, giving up three runs, and Dune Martin finished up the pitching as the Blue and White strolled to a 19-3 win. Freshman Lee Martin, Chip Place and Frank Konstantynowicz all had two hits apiece, as PDS produced 12 in all and played errorless ball.

If the weather holds, the Panthers will play Newark Academy away this Friday and try for the third time to play Wardlaw Saturday at home, beginning at 1 p.m. PDS is now 3-2-1 for the season.

PHS TRACKMEN WIN

Trenton 69-61 Victim. Seven firsts were instrumental in Princeton High School's 69-61 victory in track Monday over visiting Trenton High School (2-3). PHS is now 2-4.

Ahead are dual meets with St. Anthony on Thursday and St. Thomas Aquinas on Monday. Both will be at the PHS field, starting at 3:45.

Against Trenton, Dave Gilbert won the javelin for the first time with a toss of 151-11. PHS teammate Richard Gozy was second with 146-0. Fred Berkelhammer, a freshman, flipped backward over the high bar to win the high jump with a leap of 5-6 — his best mark of the season. Coach Larry Ivan reports his jumping potential is unlimited.

The meet also marked the first dual meet setback for Peter Nichols in the two mile. Walter Holloway of Trenton won the event in 10:05.5 — believed to be a new Tornado record. Nichols was timed in 10:15.7.

Bill Alexander and Lou Drury continued their dominance in the weight events. Alexander captured the shot put with a toss of 50-1 1-2, while Drury took the discus with a 146-6 effort. Mark McLean cleared 10-0 to win the pole vault.

PHS miler John Woodside kept his record unblemished with a 4:45.5 run, while Mike Coda again won the 880 in 2:04.7. Two tenths of a second behind Coda was teammate Martin Willard.

Steve Carlton finished second in the high hurdles, 440 and long jump. Bill Frazier was second in the mile, Bil Alpert was second in the vault and Drury second in the shot.

Mike White had to settle for second place in the 220, although his time of 22.4 was the same as that of the winner. After a long dispute it was determined by the officials that the Trenton runner had "outleaned" White at the tape.

Saturday at the annual Penn Relays, PHS entered a one-mile and two-mile team.

The two-mile team failed to qualify. Then after a mixup over a communications breakdown that prevented the one-mile team from competing, the two-mile team ran in the mile relay. Coda, Willard, Rex Hay and Steve Roderick, however, did not finish anywhere near the top.

PHS Best In Shot. In the third annual Lawrenceville School Relays held last week, PHS won one of the 13 events.

Alexander heaved the shot 50 - 1-2, Drury tossed it 46-10 1-2 and senior Terry Axtmann added 36-8 feet for a combined winning distance of 133-7. Lawrence High School placed second with 132-6 1-2.

PRS also took a second in the distance medley with a time of 11:02.1, Running for the Little Tigers were Coda, Carlton, Woodside and Hay.

WOMEN'S GOLF STARTS

At Springdale. A member-member tournament opened the women's season at Springdale Golf Club last week.

Winners were a foursome consisting of Mrs. Shirley Pearce, Mrs. Kay Conover, Mrs. Josie Hall and Mrs. Rita Edmonds. Runners-up were Mrs. Claire Parsells, Mrs. Anne Poole, Mrs. Betty Bardwell and Miss Kathy Shillaber. Both teams scored net 64s, but the former won on a match of cards.

The nine-hole event was won by Mrs. Doris Brinster, Mrs. Hermina Grover, Mrs. Louise Erler and Mrs. Peggy Skillman.

LaFOUNTAIN WINS 5 OF 6

In Sunfish Competition. Sunday's sailing races on Lake Carnegie became the first survival test of the Carnegie Sailing Club's spring series. Strong winds gusting up to 25 knots capsized several boats—one skipper went over four times and placed a premium on strength and weight as well as skill.

Tad LaFountain finished first among 20 skippers in the Sunfish, winning five out of six races; he was followed by John Hepfeld and Jack Kunz. Bob Holzman took first in the Lasers with Peter Bordes, second.

The preceding two Sundays had featured the intrefleet series, an annual trophy competition in which the skipper with the best average in all Sundays is awarded a silver cup. This year, LaFountain won it.

MONDAY IS START

Of Indoor Tennis Tourney. Entries for the Princeton Indoor Tennis Center's men's singles tournament has closed with a draw of 32 competitors. Play will start on Monday.

All entrants are reminded to call the Princeton Indoor Tennis Center, 924-0015 to check for schedules of match time. Registration for the doubles competition is still being accepted. These matches will start May 14th. Deadline for entries is Thursday, May 10, at 5:00 p.m. Application forms can be obtained at the Princeton Indoor Tennis Center on Washington Road.

SOUL GAME SUNDAY

At Dillon Gym. Joint Effort, a group of young brothers from Princeton, is sponsoring its first annual Soul Basketball Classic for high school seniors Sunday at 2 in Dillon Gym.

The contest, the New Jersey All-Stars vs. the New York All-Stars, will feature some of the finest high school players in N.J. (Tony Bailey, Larry Davis, Paul Smith) against some of the best in N. Y. (Andre Means, Wayne Harrison, Ralph Monar). Admission is $1 for students, $2 for adults.

The game will also feature future talent in a surprise one-on-one contest. Further information is available from John Bailey, 924-9459 or 452-7086.

Lifeguards Wanted

The Princeton Recreation Department is looking for highly qualified lifeguards — preferably male — for the Community Park Pools. Positions are available for both weekdays and weekends.

Applicants should have an active Water Safety Instructor's certificate or three seasons of pool experience and be at least 18. For additional information, call the recreation office, 921-9480.

was a graduate of Bradley University in Peoria, and was a member of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

In addition to her daughter, she is survived by a son, Robert H. Pratt of Richmond, Va.; a sister, Mrs. John Nash of Los Angeles; and six grandchildren.

A memorial service was held in the Lady Chapel of Trinity Episcopal Church. Interment was in All Saints Cemetery. Arrangements were made by the Mather Funeral Home.

James F. Smith, 86, of 12 Vandeventer Avenue, died April 26. A retired conductor, he had worked over 50 years with the Pennsylvania Railroad.

A native of Flemington, Mr. Smith was a member of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church. He was an exempt member of the Hook and Ladder Company of the Princeton Fire Company, a member of Princeton Lodge 38, F. and A. M. for over 50 years, a charter member of the Princeton Shrine Club, and a member of the Crescent Temple of Trenton and the Railroad Square Club.

Survivors include his wife, Mrs. Anna Roper Smith; a daughter, Mrs. Frances S. Otten of St. Petersburg, Fla.; and three grandchildren.

The service was held at the Mather Funeral Home. Masonic services also were conducted. Interment was in the Brainerd Cemetery in Cranbury.

Mrs. May Young Schumucker Compton, 74, died April 26 at the home of her son, Raymond H. Compton, 4 Dublin Road, Pennington. She was active in St. Matthew's Episcopal Church and the Association of the New Jersey Neuro-Psychiatric Institute.

She was a native of Reading, Pa., and had lived in this area since 1957. She was the widow of George R. Compton.

Survivors include another son, George R. Jr. of Mountain Lakes, and seven grandchildren.

Services were held in St. Matthew's Episcopal Church, and interment was in the Pennington Cemetery. Contributions may be sent to the church memorial fund.

James H. Buck, 70, of 231 Jackson Street in Hopewell, died April 26 in Mercer Hospital. He was an employee of the Hopewell Valley Golf Club.

Survivors include his brother, Charles, and sister, Miss Mary Buck, both of Trenton.

Funeral services were held at the Cromwell Memorial Home, and interment was in Highland Cemetery.

Angelo J. Arcarese, 59, of 41 Diverty Road, Hopewell Township, died April 22 in St. Francis Hospital. He was employed for 21 years as a machinist at General Motors.

Survivors include his estranged wife, Anne V. Henderson; two daughters, Mrs. Frances Leopardi of Trenton, and Mrs. Mary Jo Ludivico of Philadelphia; four brothers, James, John, Anthony, and Frank, all of Trenton; three sisters, Mrs. Grace McCue of Philadelphia, Mrs. Jessie Romeo and Mrs. Mary Suta, both of Trenton; four grandchildren, and several nieces and nephews.

Mass of the Resurrection was celebrated in St. James Church, Trenton.

Charles D. Berta, 89, of 121 Sycamore Drive, died April 29 in Princeton Medical Center.

Mr. Berta had come here to live after retiring from the investment banking business. He was a native of Braidwood, Ill.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Bertha Whitlock Berta; a sister, Mrs. Frances B. McPike of Crystal Lake, Ill.; and a brother, Alfred J., of Fort Wayne, Ind.

A private service was held, with burial at the convenience of the family. Contributions may be made to the American Cancer Society.

ROYALTY NEVER LIVED HERE but a former Governor did. Beautiful Princeton Borough brick Colonial, just 20 years old, features 11 rooms, 4 full baths and 2 half baths, and 5 fireplaces. The three acres of land include a swimming pool, cabana, and manorial landscaping. $325,000

UNIQUE IS AN OVERWORKED WORD but we don't think you'll consider it an overstatement once you've seen this house in Princeton Township. Set on a wooded lot of almost 2 acres, it is a 6-year-old Colonial with 11 rooms, 3½ baths, many extras and built-ins, and 2-car garage. Off the rear of the house is a 40x60 pool house enclosing a 24x46 pool, brand new and still awaiting a few finishing touches. $187,000

TUCKED AWAY AT THE END OF A LITTLE LANE, this Chalet-style home lends a French atmosphere to Princeton Township. Eight rooms, 3½ baths, fireplace, central air conditioning, and a 3-car garage. A large patio and estate-like setting enhance its endearing charms. $133,000

HOUSES COME AND GO BUT those in Princeton Borough's western end are few and far between. This one has ten rooms, 4½ baths, and a 2-car garage. $132,500

This charming older two story colonial has a big country kitchen with the atmosphere of rustic beams and the easy living of early American. The living room, dining room, den and possibility of a downstairs powder room spell modern colonial convenience. Upstairs, are four truly colonial bedrooms and a modern bath. In the attic are wide plank loose floorboards for a worthwhile restoration. Come and see. $38,900

A Princeton town house within walking distance of the University has just come on the market. You can walk to schools, shopping and virtually everything. The living room has a fireplace and built in bookcases; the dining room is early American; the kitchen is modern and the family room is nice and light with a picture window overlooking the patio and garden; upstairs are 4 delightful bedrooms and 2 full baths; downstairs is a 5th bedroom or teenagers hideaway with fireplace and half bath. $60,500

"I never build houses on the top of a hill. I build them around it like an eyebrow." — Wright. The best of Princeton living is yours in this organically set California ranch which would be ideal for the family with teenagers. Enter on one level into a spacious living room with fireplace overlooking the woods and brook and notice the flexibility of a floor plan that can accommodate children of varying ages. Eat-in kitchen, large dining el and two or three bedrooms (or custom den) upstairs. Downstairs, open to a patio, is a full family room with fireplace and pool table, two more bedrooms and bath, a sewing room, and a custom built office with waiting room and separate access. Luxuriously carpeted and including many custom features for $71,500

Once in a while you find a builder with a true sense of the rustic. Natural cedar siding, rustic beams, and tastoful thick mouldings make this traditional Cape Cod a unique custom built home. A nice formal living room, extra large dining room, family room with fireplace, queen size kitchen, and master suite are arranged in an interesting floor plan, while upstairs are three generous bedrooms and a possible fourth if need be. A full dry basement, two car garage, and patio, all on a delightfully wooded 1¾ acre lot. $73,500

Princeton Rental — 4 bedroom colonial in Borough. Living room with fireplace, dining room, eat-in kitchen, family room. One year lease. $475 per month

What is eminent domain! Eminent domain may be defined as the power of the state to take private property for public use according to a national authority on real estate. Both federal and state governments, however, must provide compensation for the property. Eminent domain does not mean confiscation of land but entitles the owner to just payment for it. This is only to be used when some needed property is necessary for some public good.

Those at WALTER B. HOWE INC., 1 Palmer Sq., Princeton (924-0095), Pennington (737-3301) and W. Windsor (799-1100) will answer your real estate questions. Commercial and Residential Properties. Open 9-9. Sat. 9-5. Sun. 1-5.

HELPFUL HINT:
Usually the owner of property receives market value for property received under eminent domain.

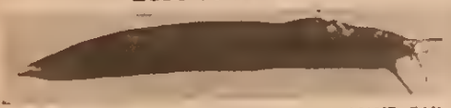
REWARD



For information leading to the capture of GIANT GARDEN SLUGS. These animals provide material for basic research on the nervous system. We can use only one type of slug which is distinguished by its gray-brown color with black stripes and spots. Adult slugs may be 4-6 inches long. They may often be found in gardens — after sundown and after rain. If you collect and deliver slugs we will pay $15 per pound which is about 25c per large slug. We will also pay for information about locations where these animals can be found. If you have information, questions or slugs, call 452-3831 or 452-3550.
